

Military winning war on drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Friday it has reversed the heroin epidemic among U.S. troops in Vietnam and reported a sharp decline in narcotics addiction and use among the troops.

"I think the big Green Machine (the Army) has done something right," by accomplishing what the civilian society has been unable to do, said Dr. Richard S. Wilbur. "We've reversed the heroin epidemic within a year, and it's a unique triumph."

Wilbur, assistant secretary of defense for health and environment, said drug-related deaths in Vietnam dropped from a peak of 15 a month in November, 1970, to zero last September and October, the last available reporting months.

Wilbur said urinalysis tests showed that only 2.5 per cent of the GIs leaving Vietnam in December used heroin, compared to a high of about 4 per cent a month shortly after the testing program began last summer.

Despite the gains, he reported that some 2,000 men a month are still being referred to rehabilitation centers in the war zone for nonaddictive heroin treatment. However, the number is beginning to flatten out and is expected to drop sharply in the coming months, he added.

But "the ones we worry about most are the addicts, and the number of those under treatment by the medical corps in Vietnam has dropped from about 600 a month in July to a little more than 200 in October," Wilbur said.

At a news conference, Wilbur denied the drop in drugs statistics was brought about by the decline in U.S. troop strength in Vietnam. He cited statistics showing that the pace of troop withdrawals is proceeding at a much slower rate than the decline in drug usage and addiction.

Instead, the doctor attributed the success to:

—A worldwide drug education program to inform servicemen of the dangers involved with the so-called hard drugs.

—"The deterrent effect of knowing there may be a random screen (mandatory urinalysis test) and tonight may be the night."

—The rehabilitation program.

While not ready to declare "total victory" in the antidrug battle in Vietnam, Wilbur said, "we have the beginning of a very definite trend."

His report dealt mainly with the drug problem in Vietnam and made little mention of the efforts in the United States and Europe where the use of heroin, barbiturates and other drugs has been less of a problem.

Apollo moon flight delay

CAPE KENNEY (UPI)—The Space Agency Friday postponed the Apollo 16 moon flight from March 17 to April 16 because of problems with a spacecraft separation device, batteries and a space-suit.

Apollo Program Director Rocco A. Petrone, who made the decision in Washington, said engineers might have been able to solve all the difficulties in time to make the March date but "I just didn't deem it in our interest to force it."

The mission is the nation's next-to-last Lunar-landing expedition and it will be carried out by John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke. The final Apollo mission remains set for December.

Young and Duke will explore a rugged stretch of the moon's central highlands for the first time while Mattingly maps the moon from orbit.

The primary problem responsible for the delay, Petrone said, involved a design flaw in the explosive undocking device used to sever the Apollo command module from its landing craft in lunar orbit. That system will be opened and modified.

Petrone also said a spacesuit that will be worn by Young during his three surface excursions must be sent back to the factory for changes because it was found that Young had a tendency to put unusual stresses on the suit.

The third problem concerns batteries to be used in the Apollo 16 lunar module. Petrone said improved quality control procedures are being utilized to guarantee that each battery will produce 100 per cent of its designed power.

Unemployment passes 6% Sour note ends decade's worst job year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Friday that unemployment climbed to 6.1 per cent in December, the end of a year with the worst average annual jobless rate in a decade.

Nevertheless unemployment in California declined slightly to 6.1 per cent last month — the lowest rate in 18 months. Director Sigurd Hansen of the Department of Human Resources Development said the decrease from 6.2 per cent in November continues a six-month downward trend in the rate which stood at 7.4 per cent last June. The Los Angeles-Long Beach jobless rate climbed to 6.4 per cent from 6.3 per cent in November.

The national figures showed that the nation ended the year with 5.2 million workers unemployed and with a 5.9 per cent unemployment rate for all of 1971.

Democrats immediately seized on the figures to challenge President Nixon's oft-stated prediction that 1971 would be a good year and 1972 a very good year.

"Richard Nixon's very good year in 1972 has gotten off to a very bad start," said Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

On Capitol Hill, Geoffrey H. Moore of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) did not disagree with Sen. William Proxmire's assessment that "this looks to me like a pretty discouraging, if not bleak, picture."

Moore did note "a small improvement" in the number of people with jobs and an increase in the average work week as encouraging signs.

In a statement from his presidential campaign headquarters, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said the persistent joblessness was the result of President Nixon's "clear choice to turn his back on the working men and women of America."

"He can make late night phone calls to football coaches and dream up touchdowns but cannot devise a plan to put Americans to work," McGovern said.

Organized labor also chimed in, recalling that Nixon a year ago promised that unemployment would come under control in 1971.

"Not one word of that prediction has come to pass," AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland said. "It is a record that should shame the administra-

Nixon, Sato in twofold pact

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato, completing two days of summit talks, agreed Friday to return Okinawa to Japanese control on May 15 and to establish a Washington-Tokyo "hot line" to speed future consultations between the two nations.

There was no mention, however, of the trade concessions the United States had requested in return for the political measures obtained by the Japanese.

A JOINT communique issued after the session indicated that Nixon had assured the Japanese leader that all American nuclear weapons will be removed from Okinawa when it is returned to Japan.

U.S. officials had indicated Thursday they expected agreement soon on Japanese steps to increase the sale of U.S. goods in Japan in an effort to relieve the nation's chronic balance of payments problems.

There was no mention of such an agreement in the joint statement, but economic talks will resume next week on a lower level between teams headed by William Eberle, Nixon's special representative for trade negotiations, and Japanese Ambassador to the United States Hoshikazu Ushiba.

The decision to return Okinawa to Japan on May 15 split the difference between the April 1 date requested by Sato and the July 1 date originally proposed by the United States.

The actual reversion agreement was signed June 17, 1971.

The agreement to speed return of Okinawa was considered a significant victory for Sato. Japanese sources said it would strengthen his shaky political position at home.

At a news conference following the end of the meetings, Sato said Japan and the United States are now economic competitors but Japan should not forget the help the United States extended after World War II to get the defeated nation back on its feet.

"JAPAN NOW has grown up," Sato said through a State Department interpreter. "Some people say now we are big boys we can do what we want. We should not forget the help we got from the United States."

Sato also said Nixon promised to consult closely with Japan on future changes in Asian policy "so there will be no future shocking" developments like the President's surprise announcement of his plans to visit Peking.

Sato planned to return to Tokyo on Sunday. Nixon planned to return to Washington today.

Acting Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon and Sato agreed to install a Tokyo-Washington hot line similar to the teletype link between Washington and Moscow.

TREASURY Secretary John Connally has said a trade agreement may come following the Eberle-Ushiba meeting.

Angela in hospital

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Angela Davis was hospitalized Friday for tests by both "doctors and dentists," her attorney said, and also is suffering from a mysterious "coldness in her lower extremities."

Howard Moore, chief defense counsel for the 27-year-old black militant who is to go on trial for murder and kidnapping Jan. 31, refused to define the illness for which the tests were being carried out.

"Hopefully, the doctors and dentists can clear this up," he said. "I am more worried over her constant complaint of coldness in her lower extremities. This has been going on for some time and has me extremely worried."

Hotel Pierre heist 'solved'

NEW YORK (AP) — The multimillion-dollar Hotel Pierre robbery, carried out by four bandits who arrived at the fashionable hotel by limousine before dawn last Sunday, was declared "solved" by police on Friday with the arrest of four men and the recovery of $250,000 in jewels.

Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy said several more arrests were imminent in the case but gave no details.

The four men in custody, Murphy said at a news conference, were seized at two midtown Manhattan hotels, both only a short distance from the Pierre, which overlooks Central Park on Fifth Avenue.

Murphy declined to say whether the men seized by police were allegedly involved in the actual robbery or were fences to whom the stolen goods were being sold.

HE DID say that two of the men had just bought some of the stolen loot when police stormed their room at the Summit Hotel.

The loot recovered by arresting officers included diamond bracelets and earrings, a star sapphire and hundreds of small diamonds that had been dislodged from their fittings, police said.

The total take in the elaborate robbery had been estimated at anywhere from $1 million to five times that figure.

The bandit gang, including one man posing as a chauffeur, arrived at the Pierre about 4 a.m. Sunday and persuaded the security guard to unlock the entrance. They said they were guests.

THE quartet then trussed or handcuffed 19 hotel employes and guests and went into the hotel's vault behind the reception desk.

Apparently at random, the bandits wielded crowbars to open 47 of 200 safety-deposit boxes in the vault. They left one hour and 45 minutes later, tripping off a Wells Fargo alarm as they fled but still making good their escape.

Police said a second alarm at the entrance to the vault was inoperative because it had been left open, in violation of hotel security rules.

Murphy would give no details of the investigation that led to Friday's arrests, but police said earlier the recovery of $7,000 of stolen securities on Tuesday had provided their first real lead in the Pierre case.

THOSE securities were stolen Christmas Day in a $15,000 robbery at the Drake Hotel, where the same methods were used as in the Pierre heist.

The four suspects in custody were identified as Dominick Paulino, 46, Rochester, N.Y.; Benjamin Fradkin, 65, Lawrence, N.Y.; Robert Comfort, 39, Fairport, N.Y.; and Bert Stern, 45, no address.

No charges were immediately filed.

Deputy Police Commissioner Robert Daley said that as a result of the arrests, "The Pierre robbery has been solved."

Boiler explosion rips hospital

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UPI) — A boiler exploded "like a bomb" in a three-story annex of the McKeesport Hospital Friday, injuring 22 of the 45 maintenance and administrative employees inside the building and caused nearly $1 million in damages.

Two employees, one of them a woman trapped 90 minutes in the rubble, were critically injured and seven others were also hospitalized in fair or serious condition.

A hospital spokesman said a fire alarm, triggered by one of six workmen in the boiler room just before the explosion, possibly averted a major disaster.

Just 20 seconds after the alarm sounded, the explosion tore through the annex, shattering windows in nearby homes and businesses.

"I never saw anything like it in my life," said hospital electrician Jim Herb, 35, whose right eye was cut by flying glass.

"It was like a bomb went off. Some glass or something hit me. For awhile, I had no idea where I was."

Mrs. Suzanne Stephan, hospital director of communications, said none of the 500 patients or 800 workers in the main hospital building were injured, nor were any vital services seriously interrupted.

Although an official estimate of damages was not immediately available, Mrs. Stephan said it might reach $1 million since the explosion destroyed a $500,000 computer and blew out the rear of the brick annex. The cause of the explosion was also not known.

Firemen also thought at first that a 100-foot tall

Tipoff letters lead to bombs in 3 cities

United Press International

Anonymous letters apparently from the radical left underground tipped off police Friday to the location of eight time bombs planted months ago in safety deposit boxes in major banks in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Police bomb squad experts in the three cities entered the banks shortly after dawn, found the explosive devices and gingerly dismantled them without anyone being harmed.

The tipoff letters, delivered to newspapers and radio stations in Chicago and San Francisco, warned that the bombs found Friday were fairly crude "prototypes" and "in future bombings" the explosive devices will be more sophisticated.

The neat, hand-printed letters indicated this was the start of a campaign to "kidnap property and offer it in exchange for the freedom of our people."

"Free all political prisoners," the letters ended. "Remember George Jackson and Sam Melville."

Jackson was one of the black "Soledad Brothers" killed in an escape attempt from San Quentin said to have been plotted by radical leftists. Melville, a confessed revolutionary bomber of eight New York buildings, was killed in the Attica Prison riot last September.

Police professed to have few, if any clues, aside from the fact that seven of the safety deposit boxes were leased to a mysterious "Christopher Charles Mohr."

Police and FBI agents in San Francisco were quoted as speculating "Mohr" could be a fictitious name for a number of people. Or, they said, he might be a pleasant, soft-mannered "physicist" who spent two days in a Chicago apartment building in December, 1970, and then left without paying the rent.

Rehnquist, Powell join Nixon Court

Combined Wire Services

Lewis Powell and William Rehnquist became the first Supreme Court justices in more than a half-century to take their seats together Friday and gave President Nixon the conservative edge he wanted on the high tribunal.

The 10-minute ceremony at which they formally donned the black robes of associate justices was by invitation only. A picket line marched outside the court, identifying himself as Eric Johnston, a "constitutional lawyer" from Rutgers University and carrying a sign: "America Today

Mourns the Death of an Institution."

Neither Rehnquist, 47, a former assistant attorney general, nor Powell, a 64-year-old Richmond, Va., lawyer, ever served as a judge before. As is the custom, they took their constitutional oaths with only the other seven justices present, before taking their judicial oaths and their seats in the chamber. They were the 99th and 100th justices to serve in the U.S. high court.

Powell is the seventh Virginian to be appointed to the court, taking the seat vacated by the late Hugo Black, while Rehnquist became the first justice from Arizona and succeeds the late John Harlan. They took their judicial oaths from Chief Justice Warren

Burger. Powell will administer the 5th Circuit which includes federal courts in Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and the Canal Zone. Rehnquist, a native of Wisconsin, will administer the 7th which includes Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. Not since Jan. 3, 1911, when Willis Van Devanter and Joseph Lamar were seated together have two justices taken their places on the court on the same day.

18 Yanks wounded

Combined Wire Services

SAIGON — Viet Cong forces slammed 20 rounds of mortars into a U.S. position only 20 miles northeast of Saigon late Friday night, wounding 18 Americans and one South Vietnamese. Three Americans were wounded seriously enough to require medical evacuation. It was one of the heaviest shelling barrages against U.S. units in several months and exacted one of the heaviest tolls of wounded. Meanwhile, the U.S. Command admitted Friday the loss of a 12th American aircraft last month in the intensified air war and reported a helicopter shot down in South Vietnam's central highlands. Elsewhere, a 2,000-man force of South Vietnamese troops moved into northeastern Cambodia in an operation designed to thwart an anticipated Communist offensive during the Tet lunar new year next month.

Air crash blackout; 104 dead

IBIZA — An Iberia Caravelle jetliner slammed into the highest mountain on this Mediterranean tourist island Friday killing the 104 persons aboard. The Spanish plane carried a crew of six and 98 passengers on a flight from Madrid and Valencia to Ibiza, the airline company said. Spokesmen said there were two foreigners aboard — Jeff Dessak of New York and Dieter Fricker of West Germany. Officials clamped a news blackout on the possible causes of the crash.

Plane's wreckage, bodies found

LIMA — A rescue party searching the jungle for the wreckage of an airliner that crashed Christmas Eve with 92 persons aboard found the plane's tail and some bodies Friday. Ministry spokesmen said there was no word of survivors other than Juliane Koepeke, 17, daughter of a German-born scientist. She was found Monday after wandering 11 days through the northeastern Peruvian jungle.

21 die in Yucatan air crash

BACALAR — A Mexican official said Friday that 21 persons, including possibly one American, perished late Thursday in the crash of a DC8 transport in the Yucatan Peninsula jungle. Eyewitnesses said the plane was trying to make an emergency landing when it suddenly exploded and plunged to the ground. There were no survivors, said city officials.

Family hijacks L.A. jet

MIAMI — A black couple carrying a five-month-old boy smuggled a sawed-off shotgun hidden in the baby's cradle aboard Friday and hijacked a West Coast airliner to Cuba. The couple roughed up passengers and a stewardess then set the passengers free before the flight to Cuba. Pacific Southwest Airlines flight 902, a Sacramento-San Francisco-Los Angeles run was taken over by the sky pirates at 12:10 A.M. PST, 20 minutes after it had left San Francisco. The 138 passengers were permitted to leave the plane at Los Angeles and told tales of the male hijacker, a tall Negro, manhandling one of the stewardesses and hitting a passenger in the stomach with the butt of a shotgun. The plane returned here shortly before 3 p.m., EST, where the crew was questioned by FBI agents and then flew back to the West Coast.

Explosion rips Goodyear plant

PLAQUEMINE, La. — An explosion ripped through a Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. chemical plant Friday night, injuring at least four workers. The Iberville Parish county sheriff's office said there was no fire following the blast. State police said four men were critically injured. A spokesman at Baton Rouge General Hospital said three burn victims from the plant had been admitted, but their conditions were undetermined.

Gunmen kill Belfast pub owner

BELFAST, Saturday — A wealthy Protestant pub owner was shot and killed by gunmen just before dawn today at his suburban Lowwood Park home. Gerald Woods, owner of the Belfast pub, the Gibraltar, was the first prominent person assassinated in Northern Ireland since gunmen killed a Protestant legislator and several members of the Ulster defense regiment, a part-time military force, two months ago. Woods was the 209th person slain in three years of escalating violence in northern Ireland.

Red China nuclear explosion

WASHINGTON Saturday — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday that Communist China had set off a small nuclear explosion in the atmosphere at approximately 5 a.m. The location was at the Lop Nor nuclear test area in Northwest China. It was China's 12th explosion in the atmosphere; there has been one on the ground.

India-Hanoi diplomatic ties

NEW DELHI — In a rebuff to the U.S., India renewed full diplomatic relations with North Vietnam on Friday. India appeared to be making an appreciative gesture to the Soviet Union, its supporter in the war with Pakistan last month. But it was considered likely that recognition of Hanoi could have repercussions in relations with the U.S. and peace-keeping efforts in Indochina.

U.S. says India move ill-timed

WASHINGTON — The U.S. criticized India's upgrading of diplomatic relations with Hanoi Friday as a poorly timed abandonment of its neutral attitude as chairman of the Vietnam International Control Commission. "India as chairman of the ICC would in effect be abandoning a neutral attitude by taking steps according to a relatively favorable attitude toward North Vietnam" compared with South Vietnam, a State Department spokesman said. "Considering the very tough line that the North Vietnamese are taking in Paris," he added, "it would seem to us a particularly poor time" for this action.

U.N. economy wave launched

UNITED NATIONS — Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, at the end of his first week in office, has launched an economy wave aimed at reducing the U.N. deficit. A memo sent to all department heads on Waldheim's initiative asked for savings to be made on overtime pay and for staff vacancies to remain unfilled. U.S. Ambassador George Bush met with Waldheim twice this week. He said after an hour-long meeting Monday that the financial insolvency of the organization was one of the pressing problems dealt with. During the recent General Assembly, the U.S. delegation complained that the United Nations was spending too much and needed to trim overheads drastically.

Snow, rain hits most of nation

The National Weather Service said the mercury dropped to freezing through the Gulf Coast late Friday night. Freeze or frost warnings were posted in Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida.

Hughes ad

Howard Hughes bought full-page advertisements in more than 20 Nevada newspapers Friday, thanking his employees in the state for "your loyalty, support and hard work." In part the ad read: "I sincerely hope . . . that 1972 will be a happy and rewarding one for all of you — 80,000 families." It was signed "Howard Hughes." Hughes Tool Co. representatives said it was a legitimate New Year's greeting from the billionaire recluse to his employees.

Well wisher

Liz Renay, the glamorous one-time girlfriend of former racketeer Mickey Cohen, said Friday in Los Angeles she wishes him well now that he's out of prison, but "there can't be any more romantic thing with Mickey and me." Miss Renay, 45, the red-haired actress who went to jail three years for perjury in one of Cohen's trials, said she's now "happily married" to her fifth husband, millionaire Tom Freeman, and Cohen is "out of the picture."

Poet's death

John Berryman, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet who wrote among other things of death and suicide, waved goodbye to a witness Friday and jumped to his own death from a bridge. The 57-year-old university of Minnesota professor, who won a national book award with a book of poetry centered on his father's suicide, climbed the railing of the bridge on the Minnesota campus at about 9 a.m. and jumped to the ice of the Mississippi River. University police found him dead minutes later. A university police captain said officers found no notes on his body. Berryman, father of a son and two daughters, won his Pulitzer Prize for his book "77 Dream Songs" in 1965. He won a national book award in 1968 with a book of poetry entitled "His Toy, His Dream, His Rest," the theme of which was the suicide of his father. Berryman's father shot himself outside his son's bedroom window when the poet was 12 years old.

Windfall

Manuscripts by Nobel Prize-winning novelist William Faulkner were discovered in his ancestral home while it was being readied for termite treatment, University of Mississippi officials announced Friday. The papers were found last summer by an English department official in Faulkner's home, Rowan Oaks, now a part of the university campus. The manuscripts included more than 2,000 pages written during the early years of the writer's career, including "Pylon," previously thought missing; "The Vanquished," "As I Lay Dying," various poems and the outline of a play. The manuscripts later were turned over to the school by Mrs. Faulkner. Faulkner died in 1962.

Lucy's leg

Actress Lucille Ball broke her right leg while skiing at nearby Snowmass-at-Aspen. A spokesman at Aspen Valley Hospital here said Friday the fracture had been repaired and "she is doing beautifully." He said it was uncertain how long she would remain hospitalized.

Pat Nixon stood in a rainswept open car in a motorcade Friday to wave to thousands of cheering onlookers welcoming her to Ivory Coast. "Wasn't that great?" said the First Lady as she arrived at the residence of President Felix Houphouet-Boigny. "I would have had the car open, rain or shine."

Stafford in

Robert Stafford, named to temporarily fill the Senate seat of the late Winston Prouty, was easily elected to the Montpelier, Vt. Republican stronghold to serve the remaining five-year Senate term. Richard Mallory, also a Republican, was elected to Stafford's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Rejected

A complaint of battery against actor Edward G. Robinson's 38-year-old son was rejected by the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office. Edward G. Robinson Jr. was arrested Dec. 26 when officers were called by Sylvia Habush, 39, on a complaint that she suffered a bruise on her left arm in an argument with Robinson. Robinson, who had been free on $5,200 bail, was exonerated when he appeared to answer a writ in Beverly Hills Municipal Court. The District Attorney's office had rejected the complaint earlier.

Mack, who assumed his Pacific command last June, is due to go to the academy next summer, succeeding the current superintendent, Vice Adm. James Calvert, the Navy said. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has asked in court papers to have privacy when she gives pretrial testimony in her court duel with photographer Ronald Galella. Mrs. Onassis requested permission Friday for pretrial proceedings to be conducted in a law office rather than the U.S. District Court in Manhattan. CSLB audience hostile as Hosmer defends Amchitka

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Congressman Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, told a hostile California State College, Long Beach, audience Friday that the Amchitka underground nuclear blast was the key to probably success in a strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union.

ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

New or used?

On March 2, I bought a new 1971 Datsun pickup truck from Coast Datsun of Long Beach. Along with my other papers I got a Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Certificate of Compliance issued by the Highway Patrol made out to me as the registered owner. Just recently I found under the radio speaker on the luggage shelf another Certificate of Compliance made out to Gardena Datsun as the registered owner. Does this mean that my truck had been used by Gardena Datsun as a demonstrator or something? If so, shouldn't it have been sold as a used vehicle and not a new one? H.M.N., Lomita.

It doesn't mean that it was used. California law requires that a new vehicle as well as a used one have a certificate stating its smog control device is in working order, said Robert Moat with the Highway Patrol in Sacramento. Anytime the vehicle is transferred, the device must be reinspected and another certificate issued, he said. Your truck was a dealer exchange from Gardena Datsun, Joseph McDowell, sales manager for Coast Datsun told ACTION LINE. He said dealers often make such exchanges when they don't have the exact vehicle a customer wants.

See red

Something should be done about cars parked in the Los Altos Shopping Center along the red curbs marked "No Parking." Drivers ignore the markings. When I asked a security guard if he could do something, he said nothing could be done since the curbs are on private property. Surely there is some law that can be enforced. The cars really are a hazard. B.L.B., Long Beach.

Because the center, including the parking lot, is on private property, municipal parking laws and other traffic regulations cannot be enforced. Travis Montgomery, a director of the Los Altos Business Association, told ACTION LINE that "we have, under aggravated circumstances, had some cars parked along the curbs towed away." He said the association agrees that the parked cars are a hazard and "wishes people would park in the spaces provided" but, at this time, plans no intensive enforcement in the red zones.

Railroaded

On July 8, I bought a ticket with Pullman reservations from Amtrak on the Santa Fe Railway from Kansas City, Mo. to Los Angeles. When I got on the train, I found that the bedroom I had purchased had been sold to someone else and was occupied. Neither the porter nor the conductor would help me and I had to sleep two nights in the club car. The conductor said he would file a report and I would get a refund. I haven't, and I've written to Amtrak many times and mailed them my Pullman receipt. Now someone from Santa Fe in Topeka, Kan. has asked me to mail him the receipt. Can you help get this straightened out? D.O., Long Beach.

You should have your refund soon. It will be sent to you by Santa Fe in Topeka as soon as Amtrak, which runs the nation's major passenger trains, can verify through ticket sales or conductor's reports that you were on the train. Mary Reiser with Amtrak's Washington, D.C. office told ACTION LINE they had no record of receiving your receipt with your other correspondence. She did apologize for "the undue delay" they've caused you and said she would be in touch with you.

Keep on truckin'?

I enrolled in Asa's Diesel Driver Training school, 2258 Pacific Ave. and made a $75 down payment on a correspondence course costing $995. I was told I would receive my contract and courses in 10 days. After several weeks, when I hadn't heard from them, I called their home office in Phoenix, Ariz. and Sid Owen there told me my contract had been canceled. He said I could still take the course but I would have to attend four weeks of classes in Phoenix — instead of Long Beach. He said if I did come there the rate would be cut to $500. I told him I couldn't afford to go to Phoenix and he promised to refund my money within a few days. It has been weeks. Can you help? K.W., Long Beach.

You may eventually get your money. Weldon S. Owen, general manager at Asa's, told ACTION LINE "The company we hired to sell our contracts pulled a lot of shebangs and didn't turn in all the funds. We fired them and are now in litigation to get funds back from them." He said some 50 people in California lost money when they enrolled in Asa's correspondence driving school. The company has paid back some of them. He said that when the school gets additional tuition fees from new students or collects from the sales company they will be able to pay back the rest.

REACTION

ACTION LINE recently stated that a person must be at least 65 years old to qualify for a senior citizens' property tax refund. This is incorrect. The minimum age is 62. J. G., Long Beach.

(Editor's Note: You're right. The state law that increased the annual income limit to $10,000 also lowered the minimum age from 65 to 62.)

A parade of students assailed Hosmer's voting record, called him "stupid" and "warmonger," and a potential Democratic candidate for his seat, Atty. Terry Moshenko, accused him of ducking a question.

Hosmer talked about Amchitka before he invited questions. He said the blast proved the capability of a U.S. antiballistic missile system, giving us a trading point with Russia at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Hosmer said Russia, until the test, was telling the U.S. in effect, "We can't sign a treaty to forego antiballistic missile systems because we have developed our system and have it partially deployed; you haven't even developed yours. We can't trade something for nothing. They'd laugh us off the planet."

Because of the test, Hosmer said, he feels it safe to predict that when President Nixon goes to Moscow "there will probably be announced at that time the beginnings of a strategic arms limitation treaty."

Hosmer's first questioner charged he voted against benefits for coal miners with black lung disease against the Peace Corps and to extend the draft. "Your priorities are screwed up," he added.

HOSMER SAID he would refuse to play "gamesmanship" on votes, noting he had gone on the record more than 4,500 times and anyone can pick out votes and in some way "make you look like a scoundrel."

His vote to extend the draft, he said, "was a matter of national defense and national necessity concurring in by a majority of Congress until we can extricate ourselves from the war."

Another student said the congressmen "leave the minority sitting in political aqualor. You don't see it yourself because you're too stupid."

"Flattery will get you nowhere," Hosmer responded.

MRS. PAT Nelson, a director of the congressional district's California Democratic Council, went to voting records again.

She charged he voted for $71 billion in military appropriations, against troop withdrawal deadline legislation, consistently opposed all civil rights legislation, the food stamp program, open housing, arms control and the nonproliferation treaty and voted for the House Internal Security Committee, for "no-knock" police practices and against a $4.4 billion appropriation for the office of education. "My question is, 'how do you have the nerve to run for reelection?'"

The military operation is by the Constitution under the executive branch, Hosmer replied, and the course Mrs. Nelson indicated favor for "would try to make McGovern and Cooper and Church and Nedzi and Whelan and all the rest of them the generals running the war. You just can't operate that way; it doesn't make sense. . . . You can't get out of the Vietnam war leaving a lot of dirty, loose ends that will get you back into another war almost instantaneously."

"The other things you're crabbing about," Hosmer continued, "represented

Labor chief backs strikebreaker ban

Strikebreakers are "a disgrace to the American ideal" and laws are needed to restrain them, the Assembly Labor Relations Committee was told in Los Angeles Thursday.

Sigmund Ayrwitz, executive secretary of the Los Angeles County AFL-CIO Federation of Labor, told the committee strikebreakers are "third parties with no vested interest in reaching agreement through collective bargaining."

votes against amendments, not, for example, against food stamps themselves.

THE STUDENT who called him a warmonger asked if Hosmer would vote for the clean environment act.

Hosmer said he would not vote for Muskie's "zero pollution" bill because that would mean zero population. "Every person on earth delivers some excrement, some urine — pollutants." He said he would vote for "tolerable, liveable, acceptable" environment legislation but Muskie's was economically unfeasible and technically impractical.

One questioner asked for a judgment on the cultural implication of American servicemen using the term "gook." Hosmer said he didn't know what the expression meant, apparently having misunderstood the word as "kook." He added there has been a lot of name calling in the nation's history "but we don't do that anymore."

Hosmer said, in another response, he doubts that North Vietnam would release prisoners of war in exchange for a specific American withdrawal date.

HE HOLDS some hope that the United Nations may one day have the power and influence to keep world peace, he said. The foundation has been laid in the realization by the world's principal powers "that war is no longer a tolerable way to settle problems among nations."

He disputed one student's contention that the U.S. could lead by unilateral example — "history has shown that's not the course of wisdom," Hosmer said, noting that India under Gandhi was an exemplar and yet India has just been engaged in a bloody war.

To a student who insisted on an accounting for Hosmer's campaign expenses, he replied he would not "give a kindergarten course in how to run a campaign. Step aside and let the next man up, somebody with a sensible question." Hosmer earlier had explained the approximately $16,000 of his last campaign went to printing, postage and newspaper advertising costs.

TO ANOTHER Vietnam question, Hosmer said Nixon was working on a realistic solution to ending the war "and I think you ought to get off his back and let him do it."

Potential candidate Moshenko, after a "Hello, Terry" from Hosmer, asked why it took three months of court cases to release information on the Amchitka atomic blast, studies which the Atomic Energy Commission requires be public.

Hosmer said the documents referred to were considered to be "an internal paper of the executive branch of government and as in all cases of internal papers, a court order is required to turn it loose. . . . I think as a lawyer, Mr. Moshenko, you know that too."

Hosmer closed off the questioning at that point, after about an hour before the group of some 300, but Moshenko added a last word, "Nice duck out."

Air Force owns up to boom

A mysterious boom that jolted areas of Southern California Thursday night was probably caused by a squadron of Air Force fighters, an Air Force spokesman said Friday.

A squadron of F106 fighters from Luke Air Force Base in Phoenix, Ariz., was taking part in an exercise off the California coast, the spokesman said.

One of the fighters caused a sonic boom at 10:06 p.m., he added, about the time the mysterious boom occurred.

Two die in accidents

A Harbor City pedestrian and a Willowbrook motorist were killed Friday in separate traffic accidents.

Theodore K. C. Lee, 60, of 1302 1/2 Anaheim St., was dead at the scene when he was struck by an auto on Anaheim Street west of Gaffey Avenue in Harbor City. The accident occurred at 6:20 p.m.

The car was driven by Donald Bloomingkemper, 30, of Gardena, who was not cited. Lee was crossing the street in midblock, police said.

The second victim, Horace Hamlin, 56, of 1124 E. 131st St., died several hours after a 3:45 a.m. accident on Del Amo Boulevard east of Avalon Boulevard in Carson.

Sheriff's deputies said Hamlin was ejected from his car after the auto collided with a vehicle driven by Arnell Jones, 21, of Carson. Deputies said Hamlin was trying to pass Jones at the time of the accident. Jones,

Drought-ending rains' benefits to county cited

From Our L.A. Bureau

The heavy December rains broke a prolonged drought period and proved very beneficial to agriculture throughout the county, Agricultural Commissioner Ralph W. Lichty reported Friday.

He said the rains leached harmful salts from the soil and helped replenish underground water supplies while causing only minor inconvenience in harvest operations.

Cerritos man arrested in booby-trap bomb slaying

A 36-year-old Cerritos man was jailed Friday on suspicion of planting a bomb that killed a Manhattan Beach man and critically injured his daughter in a Los Angeles parking lot.

John E. Hoel, 35, of 17707 De Oro Place, was arrested at his home at 6 a.m. in connection with the death of Richard Short, 46, who was blown to bits by the bomb.

Police said Short's daughter, Deborah, 20, had unwittingly delivered a package containing the bomb and her father opened it on the hood of his car in a parking lot near where she works.

Miss Short, of Los Angeles, was in critical condition at the County-USC Medical center after undergoing nine hours of surgery. Hospital officials said her survival chances were improving, despite massive injuries and possible loss of eyesight.

Detectives said they arrested Hoel after learning that he and Short had argued recently over Hoel's wife. They didn't say if any explosives were found in Hoel's home.

Investigators originally theorized that the blast was a murder-suicide scheme devised by Short.

But Short's other daughter, Pamela, 17, told officers she had received a package for her father and that her sister had agreed to give it to him.

She gave him the package and he opened it in the parking lot of Pacer Performance Products near Glendale, where she is a secretary.

Detectives didn't say where Pamela Short got the packaged bomb.

60 per cent predicted by November

Young-voter registration reported high

WASHINGTON (AP) — A surprisingly high 36 per cent of the newly eligible 18-to-20-year-old voters already have registered, according to a year-end survey by the Youth Citizenship Fund.

The fund, a major coordinating and clearing house activity in the youth registration movement, based its assessment on a telephone survey of registration officials in 102 cities or counties.

Carroll Ladd, executive director of YCF, predicted Friday that at least 60 per cent of the young voters enfranchised by the new 26th Amendment will be registered in time for the general elections in November.

Sixty per cent by November would compare to about 58 per cent of the total eligible voting population registered for the 1958 elections. It would constitute a rather phenomenal registration between ratification of the amendment last June 30 and the voting next Nov. 7.

"The survey shows that those who claim young people are apathetic about registering are wrong," Ladd said. "There is great enthusiasm in areas where good registration campaigns are being conducted, and this will spread as the excitement of the campaigns builds."

A 60-per-cent registration of 18-to-20-year-olds would add some seven million new voters for the presidential election. This does not include about 14 million other first-time presidential voters who have turned 21 since 1968.

Of areas surveyed, the YCF study showed Allegheny County (Pittsburgh), Pa., with the highest percentage of young voters registered with 66.9 per cent. The smallest was Durham, N.C., with 6.7 per cent.

The youth registration was above 50 per cent in a number of locales, including New York City and Nassau County, N.Y.; Franklin County, Ohio; Philadelphia, Pa., and Harris County, (Houston), Tex.

The surveyors contacted registrars in 213 cities and counties but only 102 of these had records of the number of 18-to-20-year-olds registered. The 102 reporting covered 35 states.

The YCF is a Washington-based, nonpartisan organization which includes among its advisory council members Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and the Republican chairman, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas.

Military-defense firms 'incest' hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 1,000 high-ranking military officers left the armed forces in the last three years to join the largest defense contractors dealing with the Pentagon, a new survey shows.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the figures indicated that the "incestuous" relationship he often has criticized between defense executives and their military counterparts still exists.

The survey shows 993 officers above the rank of major taking defense contractor jobs in the last three fiscal years.

The survey, made by the Pentagon according to a new law, also shows that 232 former defense industry executives accepted civilian jobs with the Department of Defense and that 108 high level Pentagon civilian employees moved into defense industry jobs.

Proxmire said in an interview Friday he believes the new figures are significant in showing hiring trends in the military-industrial complex.

In Proxmire's last survey, based on the top 100 defense contractors, an industry-by-industry breakdown showed the leading employers of former officers were Lockheed Aircraft Corp. with 210, Boeing Co., 169; McDonnell Douglas, 141; General Dynamics Corp., 113; and North American Rockwell, 104.

Gravel's Pentagon Papers' appeal upheld

BOSTON (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in Boston Friday that no witness appearing before a federal grand jury investigating the release of the Pentagon Papers may be questioned about Sen. Mike Gravel's activities at a midnight meeting of a subcommittee he chairs.

The Alaska Democrat read portions of the papers, which delve into the origins of American involvement in Vietnam, last June. Before a midnight meeting of the Senate subcommittee on Capital Buildings and Grounds.

The grand jury subpoenaed to testify Dr. Leonard Rodberg, an aide to Gravel who joined the staff the day the senator read the papers, and Howard Webber, head of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Press.

Gravel appealed on grounds that his legislative immunity, which provides that he may not be called to account for any act performed as a senator, might be violated through questioning of his associates.

The Court of Appeals made no specific judgment on Webber, but it said that Rodberg might not be questioned on any of his activities while being interviewed for his job with Gravel or during his employment by the senator.

Webber was subpoenaed because Gravel reportedly contacted him about possible publication of the Pentagon Papers which Gravel had in his possession.

Gravel has since made arrangements to publish the papers through Beacon Press, the publishing arm of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

Portions of the Pentagon Papers were published in several newspapers last year, beginning with The New York Times.

Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, a senior research associate at MIT and a former Defense Department researcher has admitted leaking them to the press.

Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, a colleague of his at the Rand Corp. in California, were named last week in indictments charging them with criminal conspiracy to steal and distribute the once-secret papers.

The appeals court, in an opinion written by Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich, indicated it was divided on the question of the senator's right not to be questioned about his efforts to publish his version of the Pentagon papers.

"Because we do not consider this a matter of present substantial importance, we presently resolve it . . . that he may not be questioned at all as to republication," the court said.

Armed forces to drop to pre-1950 strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Friday deeper-than-planned manpower cuts that will pare U.S. armed forces to their lowest strength since before the Korean War in 1950.

Defense spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said extra slashes of 114,000 servicemen and 41,000 civil service employees were dictated by congressional budget reductions and military pay boosts.

The Pentagon action was disclosed the same day the Labor Department announced that national unemployment rose to 1 per cent last month.

Drastic cutbacks in military manpower will bring the number of men in uniform down to 2,391,000 by next June 30. This will be the smallest since the pre-Korean War total of 1,460,261 in June, 1950, and about 1.1 million below the Vietnam War peak.

This development makes it more likely that the Pentagon will omit draft calls for the first quarter of 1970 and possibly even longer. It almost certainly means low draft quotas for the rest of this year.

Friedheim said defense officials hope that most of the civilian personnel reductions can be achieved through attrition and that firings can be held to a minimum.

The new target of 1,041,000 civil service employees as of June 30 will be the smallest in seven years.

The Pentagon spokesman said there will be no new base closings and that Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has ordered that civilian job cuts will be limited to not more than 1,000 at any one base. He said it is too early to determine how the cutbacks will affect specific bases.

In the Washington area, Friedheim said, about 4,500 Defense Department employees will be cut out, more than double what had been planned previously.

Last winter President Nixon recommended a fiscal 1972 defense budget calling for $76 billion in spending. Congress has slashed that by $3.3 billion.

To compound the Pentagon's problems, Congress voted an extra $1 billion in military pay while cutting back the amount of money the Pentagon is allotted to operate this fiscal year.

Friedheim said "You can't pay as many people when you have to pay them more."

Later, Pentagon manpower officials calculated the reductions will leave the army next summer with 861,000 men, the Air Force with 730,000, the Navy with 602,000, and the Marines 198,000.

This represents an additional cutback of 81,000 for the Army, 23,000 for the Air Force, 8,000 for the Marines, and 2,000 for the Navy.

Muskie hits gov't secrecy

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Edmund Muskie called Friday for a national "government in the sunshine" law so the public won't have to depend on stolen secret papers to tell them what their president is doing.

Muskie also labeled President Nixon's support of a $6.5-billion space shuttle, "pork-barrel politics" and said it would be in the public interest to inquire more thoroughly into the environmental questions surrounding the cross-Florida barge canal.

He said this could include public hearings on the canal, halted by the President on environmental grounds a year ago.

THE MAINE Democrat, considered the front-running candidate for president in his party, showed up 45 minutes late for a speech to the politically-orientated Tiger Bay Club, explaining he had left 17-degree below zero weather "but a lot of good Democrats" in New Hampshire.

Muskie entered the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary Thursday and jumped into the Florida primary eagerly Friday.

"Like a bulldog, I'm going to sink my teeth in the Florida primary and hang on until I win," he said.

Muskie devoted most of his 25-minute speech to the new issue of doing away with secrecy in government, and got into the space shuttle and barge canal issues only in response to questions from club members and newsmen afterward.

MUSKIE said the "only real issue" in the 1972 presidential campaign is "the question of whether government truly does belong to the people."

He promised, if elected, to propose and work for passage of a national law, patterned after Florida's "government in the sunshine" law which bars conducting public business in private.

"I think it is a sad commentary that we have reached the point where we must legislate something as basic as truth in government," he said. "The government should not conceal a truth that should be told . . . behind a stamp that says 'secret.'"

"And a free people should not have to wait for the facts until someone steals them from a public office."

Berrigan bugging appeal denied by 3-judge panel

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A three-judge federal panel has denied a defense motion for an immediate hearing on the government's use of electronic surveillance in the case of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and seven other antiwar activists.

The U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals issued the denial Thursday without an opinion. The motion had asked for a lower court judge to order the hearing.

THE ORDER removed the last obstacle blocking the trial, scheduled to begin Jan. 17.

The so-called "Harrisburg Eight" are charged with conspiracy to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, destroy draft board records, and conspiracy to blow up heating tunnels in Washington.

Earlier this week the government updated the indictment by adding the name of Sister Susan Davis, a Baltimore nun, to the list of conspirators. This was done in compliance with a defense motion that all conspirators known to the government be named.

No formal charges were filed against sister Davis. Sister Davis, 23, is a teacher and a member of the Notre Dame De-Nemeur order.

Taft urges appeal right for amnestied draft resisters

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said Friday that some sort of appeals procedure will be necessary if his amnesty proposal for draft dodgers becomes law.

Speaking before the City Club Forum, Taft said that to prevent directors of federal agencies from discriminating against draft dodgers in their departments "we ought to have an appeals procedure to prevent abuses."

He said such a system is necessary to guard against a director filing a bad report against someone seeking amnesty that would result in the person being discharged and then being prosecuted.

Under Taft's proposal the 70,000 draft resisters since 1964 would be able to return to the United States provided that they agreed to work for three years at the lowest grade of pay in either the U.S. Army or a federal agency such as VISTA, Public Health Service hospitals, the Veterans Administration or any other department designated by the attorney general.

Once the three years of service is up, Taft said, the person would be immune to prosecution for draft-dodging. The senator said the proposed legislation would apply to those out of the country in exile, those in jail and those under indictment, but not to army deserters.

"The importance of this proposal is that it will provide a means to help bring the country together over the Vietnam issue," Taft said, "and give these expatriates some means to re-join the country."

16% of bridges termed unsafe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Friday that of the 563,500 highway bridges in the country, most of which were built before 1935, nearly 16 per cent are "critically deficient" and potentially hazardous.

In a preliminary report to Congress, the first of its kind ever undertaken, the Federal Highway Administration said it had only enough money to replace about 50 of the most deficient of the 88,900 bridges.

SACRAMENTO — "We do not have any structurally unsafe bridges in the state highway system," a State Public Works Department official said Friday after federal officials listed 23 California bridges as "critically deficient."

"Deficient could mean a bad paint job," protested Robert Nance, information officer for the state agency. "They should have described what deficient means," he said.

This year but would pursue the bridge replacement program vigorously.

The agency, compiling figures made available by state highway officials, did not name specific bridges but said the states with the greatest number of "critically deficient" spans were:

Tennessee, 2,655; Ohio, 2,409; Michigan, 1,851;

Iowa, 1,638; Mississippi, 1,502; Georgia, 1,429; Wisconsin, 1,419; Nebraska, 1,328; and Missouri, 1,114.

The deficient bridges were classified as long-span bridges, where "a large number of lives could be endangered" in the event of failure; bridges without the capacity for present traffic loads; and bridges with narrow widths or inadequate vertical clearance.

The report was an outgrowth of the government's investigation of the collapse of the 40-year-old Silver Bridge over the Ohio River at Point Pleasant, W. Va., on Dec. 15, 1957, in which 46 persons died and nine were injured.

The inquiry blamed the collapse on a hidden crack in a support beam caused by stress and corrosion. It said the likelihood of similar collapse under the same circumstances was "remote."

The agency said a final "inventory and classification of all significantly important bridges known to be unsafe" will not be completed until next July 1.

Nixon holds up retroactive wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Friday it is not yet legal to pay retroactive wage increases that Congress ordered paid more than three weeks ago.

The problem is that President Nixon has not yet passed along authority to clear the congressional approved back pay, a Pay Board spokesman said. Until then, earlier Pay Board rules technically remain in effect, barring most such pay.

Held up is an estimated $1.5 billion that would have been paid as raises due during the Aug. 15-Nov. 13 wage freeze.

Last Dec. 14 Congress, as part of a law extending President Nixon's authority over the economy for one year, ordered in effect that most of the retroactive raises be paid.

Nixon signed the bill Dec. 22, but the Cost of Living Council said Friday it still has received no authorization from the White House to put the new law into effect.

One union official fired off letters to Nixon and Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt complaining of the delay, which he said "is depriving millions of workers of wages which they earned and which are rightfully theirs."

"Urge you immediately take prompt action," added Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO.

The delay appears to be causing some confusion. For example, in Virginia, the Fairfax County Board of Education was holding up back pay for its teachers on advice of the Internal Revenue Service, while adjacent counties were paying the retroactive raises.

The Pay Board, meanwhile, permitted pay increases for seven large companies, including a 3 per cent salary boost for executives of the Ford Motor Co.

All the increases were less than the 5.5 per cent board guidelines for wage increases.

All of the companies involved have more than 5,000 workers and thus must notify the board in advance of granting wage boosts.

Four of the increases, including Ford's, were retroactive to Jan. 1. The others were: J.C. Penney, New York, 0.53 per cent for pension, savings and profit sharing; Equitable Life Insurance Society of the United States, New York, 5.35 per cent for general pay, and Raytheon Co., Lexington, Mass., 4.45 per cent for salaried workers.

Other approvals were: Dan River Inc., Greenville, S.C., 5.389 per cent for general pay effective Jan. 3; Genesco, Inc., Nashville, Tenn., 2.72 per cent for general pay effective Jan. 27, and S. S. Kresge, Detroit, one twelfth of one per cent for pension effective Feb. 1.

3 appliance price hikes denied; Reynolds' OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Price Commission Friday denied price increases for three home appliances manufactured by the Admiral Corp. But approved a 2 per cent increase for most Reynolds Metal Co. products.

Admiral had asked for increases of about 3 per cent on its refrigerators, freezers and room air conditioners. In turning down the request, the commission said the higher prices "would result in increases in the base period profit margin."

The panel also turned down Central Soya Inc.'s request for an 18 per cent hike on frozen precooked chicken prices. The increase "cannot be cost-justified," the commission said.

Reynolds was allowed to raise its price tag by 2 per cent on all products except those manufactured by the Eskimo Pie Co.

Other increases approved were: American Home Products, 2 per cent on all domestic products; Borg-Warner Corp., Morse Chain Division, 5.26 per cent on speed reducers and component parts; Deering Milliken Inc., 1.164 per cent on textile mill products; and De Soto Inc., 4.11 per cent on most products manufactured by the company's home accessories division.

tion and compel it to do something substantial to put America back to work."

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the continued high rate of unemployment pointed up the need for the employment-stimulating tax cuts Nixon proposed last August, but which Congress did not pass until last month.

The unemployment rate has hovered around 6 per cent for 14 straight months, compared to the 3.3 per cent joblessness that prevailed when Nixon took office three years ago.

DESPITE the continuing high rate since November, 1970, the number of persons with jobs increased during the same time by 1.4 million to a record 80.13 million.

"Jobless rates for most major groups continued in December within the relatively narrow ranges that have been in evidence through most of the year," the BLS said. These included 4.4 per cent for adult men, 3.3 per cent for married men, 5.8 per cent for adult women, 17.5 per cent for teen-agers, 8.1 per cent for Vietnam war era veterans, 5.8 per cent for full-time workers and 8.4 per cent for part-time workers.

But unemployment for Negroes jumped from 9.3 up to 10.3 per cent last month while joblessness for white workers declined from 5.7 to 5.4 per cent.

THE BLS said average weekly earnings of rank and file workers with jobs increased $1.44 last month to $130.55, due to a 2 cent jump in hourly earnings to $3.50 and to a 12-minute increase in the average workweek of factory workers to 40.3 hours, the highest level in two years.

In California, the HRD said all industries shared in employment gains in 1971 except transportation, communications and utilities which remained unchanged. Largest gains were in trade industries and services, he said.

HERE IS an area-by-area breakdown of unemployment rates:

San Francisco-Oakland, 5.4 per cent, down from 5.5 per cent; Anaheim-Santa Ana-Garden Grove, 6.4 per cent, up from 6 per cent; San Diego, 5.9 per cent, up from 5.5 per cent; San Jose, 5.5 per cent, down from 5.7 per cent; San Bernardino-Riverside-Ontario, 6.2 per cent, up from 6.1 per cent; Sacramento, 5.3 per cent, up from 5.2 per cent; Fresno, 7.2 per cent, up from 6.7 per cent; Oxnard-Ventura, 6.4 per cent, up from 6.1 per cent; Santa Barbara, 5.2 per cent, up from 5.1 per cent.

Nixon joins N.H. battle

CONCORD, N.H. — President Nixon announced his candidacy for re-election Friday in a letter to New Hampshire supporters permitting his name to remain on the state's March 7 primary ballot. He said he will allow it to be entered in other primaries.

"We have made significant beginnings in these past three years," Nixon said in a letter to former Gov. Lane Dwinell, who heads the state group organized to promote the President's re-election.

"I want to complete the work that we have begun, and therefore I shall be a candidate for renomination and re-election," the letter said.

Dwinell released the letter from Nixon and filed with Secretary of State Robert Sargent a short letter from Nixon in which he said he would "leave my name on the ballot."

Gas barge explosion kills 2, hurts 11, jolts town

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — A partially empty gasoline barge exploded near a railroad bridge over the Ohio River here Friday, killing two persons, injuring 11 others, seriously damaging the span and shattering "every window in downtown Parkersburg."

Two men aboard the barge were killed and three other crewmen were injured. The other injured were citizens hurt by flying glass and in traffic accidents in "acute anxiety reaction" to the blast, which sent shock waves through the downtown area.

A tugboat crewman and his teen-aged son were killed and three others aboard the barge were injured.

Dead were Joseph "Jack" Stephens, 49, and his son, Charles Stephens, 18, of Silver Creek, Miss. The elder Stephens had been a tugboat employee for 15 years.

Officials said the explosion apparently was caused by electric sparks from a pump being used to remove about 52 excess gallons of gasoline from a fuel compartment aboard two barges, which were

An original shipment of 250,000 gallons of gasoline, consigned from Port Arthur, Tex., at the Atlantic Richfield Oil Co., was unloaded Thursday at Steubenville, Ohio, and the barges were en route to Baton Rouge, La.

The force of the explosion tore the flaming barges, each as long as a football field, from their tug, the "Martin," and sent them drifting into a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad bridge. The empty span then burst into flames.

The bridge fire was extinguished when firemen from neighboring Belpre, Ohio, loaded a portable pumper aboard an engine and ran the locomotive 500 feet onto the bridge to fight the flames. The gutted barges finally sank.

"The explosion blew out every window in downtown Parkersburg," said a spokesman for the B&O railroad. "Eleven truckloads of glass were ordered from Charleston to replace them."

A piece of one of the barges flew about 80 feet into the air and landed on the bridge's superstructure. A freight train had cleared the bridge only about two minutes before the 2:55 p.m. EST explosion.

Gov. Arch A. Moore, responding to a request by Mayor P. A. Nicely, ordered 30 to 40 local National Guardsmen to patrol downtown Parkersburg Friday night to prevent looting.

Towns rocked by gas-pipe blast; fire seen 100 miles

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (UPI) — A Michigan-Wisconsin Natural Gas Co. pipeline exploded in an open field Friday night, charring land within a 1,000-foot radius, rocking towns 12 miles away and spewing flames seen for 100 miles.

No injuries were reported and there apparently was no damage to buildings.

Annapoos County authorities said the explosion occurred 5 1/2 miles west of this south central Iowa town. The nearest community to the explosion was Platts, a hamlet of 109 persons three miles west.

A Centerville fireman said he was eating dinner shortly before 6 p.m. when "I heard a big explosion and the whole sky lit up. Just as soon as I went outside, I could tell it was gas."

The Michigan-Wisconsin Natural Gas Co., headquartered in Detroit said representatives were en route to the scene.

Firemen said a hole 20 by 40 feet and 20 feet deep was apparently torn in the ground by the force of the blast. "Everything within 1,000 feet around it is charred, too," a fireman said, "but luckily, it was just an open field in the area."

After two hours, firemen and the Iowa Highway Patrol had confined the blaze to the general area of the pipeline explosion. Curiosity seekers were kept out of the blast area by police called in to assist.

Authorities said an area within a 10-mile radius of the blast had been sealed off. The heat of the fire hindered efforts to extinguish the blaze.

Reports of a bright light in the sky came in from Macon, Mo., some 80 miles south; Quincy, Ill., 100 miles east, and Clarion, 180 miles north.

State police in Macon said "glowing red lights" were seen over the Iowa town.

Illinois State Police in cars near Galesburg, Ill., said they saw a glow in the sky over "where the fire was supposed to be."

The cars were about 30 miles east of the Mississippi River.

talized with smoke inhalation. But the rest of the building and its tenants were saved by safety measures installed at the direction of firemen only weeks before.

Fire Chief Mitchell Coolures said someone splashed the landing and walls around it with flammable liquid and touched it off about 5:32 a.m.

Cecil Judkins, the victim, was trapped in the flaming hallway while apparently trying to turn in an alarm.

The other occupants of the second floor got out through fire escapes or firemen's ladders. One man jumped 20 feet to the street but escaped with a sprained ankle.

Six persons were taken to San Joaquin General Hospital with smoke inhalation.

Coolures said the hotel had recently installed fireproof doors in the landings to seal off each floor and sealed all transoms.

These measures confined the fire to the second floor, he said. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Police investigators said they had "some leads" to the arsonist, but no arrests were announced.

chimney near the hospital's maternity ward might collapse, but the teetering structure apparently was undamaged by the force of the explosion.

"The whole darn building and everything shook," said Ray Jensen, an attendant at a gas station about 200 yards from the hospital.

Critically injured were Mrs. Mary Ann Cunningham, 28, and Ellis Caldwell, 35, the boiler room superintendent. Mrs. Cunningham, who was later transferred to a hospital in nearby Pittsburgh, was trapped in the rubble for 90 minutes before being rescued.

The explosion disrupted only the hospital's oxygen and heating supplies, but emergency tanks of oxygen were immediately available. U.S. Steel Corp. supplied the hospital with an emergency boiler.

Robber takes $852 from bank in Santa Ana

A bandit who passed a threatening note to a woman teller took $852 from a crowded United California Bank in Santa Ana Friday.

Teller Gerrie Dulworth, 20, of Seal Beach, told police, she did not see a gun during the 1 p.m. holdup. She said the note stated: "This is a holdup. Empty the cash drawer or everyone will get hurt."

The bandit fled with a bank envelope containing the money. Police described the suspect as Mexican-American, male, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds.

L.A. flayed for water pollution

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

A state official has recommended cease-and-desist orders be issued against the City of Los Angeles and its harbor department for operating harbor outfalls which pose a pollution threat to port waters.

The Regional Water Quality Board, Los Angeles Region, will conduct a hearing Wednesday to consider the recommendations of its executive officer, Raymond V.
Hertel.

The hearing is to be held at 1 p.m. in Room 1138 of the Junipero Serra Building, 107 S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

AFFECTED BY Hertel's recommendations are can-neries at Terminal Island which discharge fish processing waste water into a drain and pumping station maintained by the harbor department.

Hertel's request for an order against Los Angeles sets a new timetable for the city to complete a multimillion dollar expansion and improvement of the Terminal Island sewage treatment plant.

The plant now discharges partially treated sewage into the water between Fish Harbor and the Navy Mole in the Port of Long Beach.

Legal migrants suffer as illegal alien job-law brings mass firings

By ARLINE SHERER
Staff Writer

Between 25,000 and 50,000 Mexicans in the Los Angeles area have lost their jobs because of a new illegal aliens employment law, a Mexican-American leader said Friday during legislative hearings in Los Angeles.

Delphino Borrella of the Mexican-American Political Association testified before the Assembly Labor Relations Committee that companies are voluntarily complying with the law, written by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood, even though it does not take effect until Feb. 8.

The law makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fines of $200 to $500, for an employer to "knowingly" hire an illegal alien whose employment would have "an adverse effect on lawful resident workers."

"It is having disastrous effects and should be repealed," Borrella argued. "Plants have laid off their entire Mexican work force rather than try to decide who is here legally. Also, people who are American citizens but do not have birth certificates, people in the process of getting their immigration papers and people who have no papers but might be entitled to legal residence are being let go."

He added that many illegal aliens have families who are citizens and when the breadwinners are deported, these families are forced to go on welfare.

To ease the problem, Assemblyman Peter Chacon, D-San Diego, suggested the law be amended to give some protection to illegal aliens who have worked in California for more than a year. And he urged Congress to give citizenship or legal residence to all illegal aliens who were in the U.S. before 1970.

Questions about enforcement, constitutionality and social effects of the law were raised by representatives of labor, industry, the Mexican-American community as well as the Assembly committee members.

Russell Parson, consultant for the Merchant and Manufacturers Association, said the law forces employers into the complex process of trying to determine an employee's status.

"Employers do not know how far they may go in ascertaining the legal residence of a job applicant, whether they are violating Title VII of the Civil Rights Act by inquiring into citizenship and whether they are expected

Lawyer's appeal: beer constitutional for teens

Should 18-year-olds be denied the right to purchase alcoholic beverages, even though they've won all other adult rights in California?

The Legislature says they should and Long Beach Municipal Court agrees.

But Attorney Phil Poppler doesn't, and he's appealing the guilty verdict that a Long Beach jury passed Friday on a liquor store clerk charged with selling a 19-year-old a six-pack of beer.

Clerk Michael Munz, 32, of 344 Orange Ave., was found guilty of selling the six-pack to Eric Johnson, 19, of 38 Virgil Walk, at the Falcon Liquors, 1501 E. Broadway, last Oct. 16.

Poppler said he'd appeal the case to Superior Court on grounds that the liquor law is unconstitutional now that adult rights are granted 18-year-olds.
Munz was arrested by state Alcoholic Beverage Control officers after they reportedly witnessed the sale.

A jury heard the case in the Long Beach courtroom of Judge Kenneth E. Sutherland.

State argues merits of Crosstown Freeway

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

City streets may be able to handle the anticipated traffic in Long Beach through 1980, but "1980 is not a termination date for transportation needs," the State Division of Highways has told Long Beach councilmembers.

By 1990, the State Division of Highways predicts, east-west traffic in Long Beach will have increased by 30 per cent, with an additional 15 per cent rise
during seasonal monthly peaks.

In a letter which will be on Tuesday's council agenda, the division asserts that "the Crosstown Freeway would be useful to Long Beach, and would be of long-term benefit."

The letter, written by District Engineer H. Ay-anian, is in response to City Manager John R.
Mansell's report on the Pacific Coast Freeway, on which councilmembers based their Nov. 2 request that the Long Beach segment be deleted.

AYANIAN called Mansell's report "very well done and comprehensive for the subject matter considered," but said the highway division believes there are some factors which merit further consideration.

"Freeways do have substantial benefits in addition to relieving traffic congestion on local city streets," Ayanian wrote. "Freeways move traffic faster, they lower user operating costs, and they are safer."

He said the division estimates that diversion of traffic from Pacific Coast Highway alone to the Crosstown Freeway would

"save three lives, 45 injuries and $200,000 in property loss each year."

Concern has been expressed over the high cost of the Crosstown Freeway, Ayanian said, but the costs cited are for its inclusion in a regional freeway. The costs would be "substanctially reduced" if it were only a "local freeway" between San Diego Freeway and Harbor Freeway, he said.

Although the division agrees that there is need for a balanced transportation system, including mass public transit, it believes freeways will be the "backbone" of such a system for many years into the future, Ayanian said.

L.B. WOMAN FEARED DEAD

A Long Beach police helicopter searched the Los Angeles River bed Friday for a 41-year-old woman they fear may have been kidnaped and murdered.

Anne Marie Robinson, of 1825 College Park Drive has been missing since 11:30 p.m. Monday when she finished her work shift
at the Pacific Telephone Co. office at 16208 S. Vermont Ave. in Gardena where she is assistant traffic manager.

Police found her car less than two blocks from the office. One tire was flat, the doors were unlocked and the vehicle had not been ransacked, police said.

Long Beach Det. Sgt.
Ron Skaggs said Friday
police were investigating the possibility that Mrs.
Robinson has been kidnaped or murdered.

She was reportedly missing by her husband,

ANNE ROBINSON

Wayne, who said she usually came directly home from work or telephoned when she expected to be late.

Officers described the woman as 5 feet, two inches tall, 115 pounds, v-blue eyes and blond hair.

New device eliminates much exploratory knee surgery

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Patients can often be spared unnecessary knee surgery, thanks to a diagnostic procedure being offered at the new Paramount General Hospital.

Medical observers say this is no small matter because exploratory surgery of the knee may result in four to six weeks of disability for the patient.

The diagnostic procedure — called arthroscopy — means giving up only one day, and some patients have played football the day after an examination of the knee joint by this procedure.

The procedure uses an instrument called the Watanabe arthroscope No. 21 to examine the inside of the knee joint.

A Paramount orthopedic surgeon, who described the technique in an interview, but asked to not be identified, said the scope is inserted into the knee through a quarter-inch incision. The scope is positioned at the side of the knee a little below the kneecap.

THE EXAMINATION is performed under general or spinal anesthesia and may take anywhere from 15 minutes to one hour. The patient is able to walk after the examination has been completed, the doctor said.

The scope has its own light source and a superb lens system for magnification, the doctor continued. In fact, thanks to the arthroscope, a doctor can see areas in the back of the knee that would be "inaccessible" during conventional exploratory surgery.

The knee is the largest and most complex joint in the body and it also is one of the most frequently injured joints, medical textbooks say.

The arthroscope is used chiefly to clear up a confusing diagnosis.

Through it a doctor can view torn menisci, those gristle-like smooth tissues in the knee which minimize the friction in the joint and act as shock absorbers.

A torn meniscus can result in a "locked" knee or a knee that may "give way."

But surgery can sometimes be averted if the arthroscope shows that the meniscus is not torn.

With the aid of the scope the doctor can also find "loose bodies" — cartilage or bone fragments that have broken off. Sometimes these loose bodies can be removed through the scope, to make incision-type surgery unnecessary.

The scope can be used to detect a disorder called chondromalacia of the patella — degeneration or softening of cartilage under the kneecap.

In knees afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis, tiny bits of tissue can be removed through the scope for examination — to enable the doctor to assess the status of the patient's arthritic involvement.

The scope was developed by Dr. M. Watanabe and an associate in Japan. Twenty-one modifications have been made in the instrument to achieve the present design, the Paramount orthopedist said.

A camera is attached to the scope, and still photos can be made of inside-the-joint defects.

The Paramount surgeon who uses the scope said that the scope is being used at places such as the University of Toronto, Mayo Clinic and in Wilmington, Del.
It has been used for many years in Japan and Europe.

In Southern California, the scope is being used by some doctors in Newport Beach, Santa Ana, Los Angeles and San Diego, the Paramount doctor said.

AN ORTHOPEDIST for a professional football team is one of the more recent users of the scope.

The Paramount doctor who described use of the scope has performed more than 100 knee examinations with it.

The arthroscope looks something like a small cystoscope, an instrument for the examination of the inside of the urinary bladder.

Although the arthroscope has been around for some time, it wasn't until Dr. Watanabe, the developer, published a new edition of his "Atlas of Arthroscopy" two years ago that use of the device really "caught fire,"
the Paramount doctor said.

Arthroscopy should be performed in a hospital, the doctor added.

The case for the beautiful proponent of women's lib

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jacqueline Bisset is a wretched proponent of women's lib.

She is so stunningly beautiful, so obviously intelligent and insidiously intelligent no man worth his salt would dare claim superiority to this British charmer who is best remembered as the stewardess in "Airport."

SHE is starring in a new film in which her first line is: "I thought the women's lib movement consisted of seven women with hairy legs who had a genius for getting on the Johnny Carson Show."

Until recently that sentiment was shared by Jacqueline, whose gray-green eyes penetrate a man with the force of lasers.

But as the leading lady of "Stand Up and Be Counted," a comedy on women's lib, Jacqueline has been taken in by the movement and has become involved.

Aux barricades! Pity, too. Jacqueline was born to be adored, not debated.

"I think this movement is more than a phase," said Jackie hesitantly. She's still pretty new at all this ruckus.

"This is a social force with great impact. But women aren't going to have everything their way by screaming and parading. That won't do it at all."

AND WHAT credentials, pray, does Miss Bisset possess regarding downtrodden womanhood — she with the passport of beauty?

"My credentials are as good as any woman's," she said. "After all I am female."

Yes. Yes. Agreed.

"And I suppose I am pretty. But that doesn't last forever. You must think about fading beauty. And it must be devastating to be ugly. Physical appearance is secondary. I've met ugly women and found them absolutely superior because they are exciting and intelligent."

"I'm learning. I thought it would be easy to play my role as a newspaper woman who knew nothing about women's lib because I knew very little about it. Then I discovered I was on the other side."

The "other side" is anti-women's lib.

"THERE'S NO reason for a woman to marry and live her life through a man to be a respectable human being. Women should have a choice of career, to pursue intellectual activities or be a wife and mother — or a mixture of the lot."

"Some women are truly unhappy and seek to find happiness through women's liberation. I'm very happy."

Miss Bisset is also very single. And man, woman nor child could hardly be more liberated.

REX HUMBARO IN AUDITORIUM FRIDAY

Country's number 1 TV evangelist comes on strong over phone too

By LES RODNEY

Rex Humbard, who began his evangelistic career with a battered old car, Bible and guitar, gets the very same old-time religion beamed every Sunday to an estimated 20 million Americans over 360 television stations.

"That's half as many people as every priest, minister and rabbi in the country will reach in a week's time," he said in a phone chat this week.

The informal, fundamentalist, country and western flavored service originates from the Astrodome of religion, the circular, 5,000-seat Cathedral of Tomorrow, near Akron, Ohio.

Next week the 53-year-old native Arkansan, with his wife, gospel singer Maude Aimee, and a musical group will board the Cathedral's white, four-engine Vickers Viscount, with red and white stripes, and zoom this away for a nationally televised rally in Municipal Auditorium Friday night.

"YES, WE'VE always had good meetings in Long Beach," he says. "Last year we had a full house at the auditorium, with the cooperation of many local ministers."

The voice is strong, yet easy, pleasant and informal, giving some suggestion, even over the long distance wires, of the man's magnetism.

Before the next question, there was something he wanted to add to the point about Long Beach being a good city for religion rallies.

"About five years ago, I'd say some sections of the country were better than others. Not any more. It doesn't matter where you go today. Carnegie Hall in New York, Catholic Montreal, down to Mobile, Alabama, St. Petersburg, my last few stops — no difference."

How come?

PROFIT AND RELIGION

"PROFIT AND RELIGION DO MIX" said a headline in the Akron Beacon Journal last week after Rex Humbard spoke to the Akron Kiwanis Club, which had its largest attendance. Reference was to the successful multi-million-dollar business enterprises run by Humbard's Cathedral of Tomorrow to further his TV evangelism.

"The thing of it is," Humbard said, "today there's a hunger for answers. Everywhere."

Is that what the Jesus Movement is all about?

"In a way. They're also searching. Some of them were on drugs, some of them led poor lives. A great number of them have found the answer. I don't give a blanket OK to what they're calling the Jesus People or Movement. I take them as individuals. Anything that uses the name of Jesus isn't right. They're playing Jesus Christ Superstar on Broadway to make a buck."

WHEN PEOPLE talk about a nationally popular evangelist, they inevitably think of Billy Graham. How would Rex Humbard, the electronic evangelist reaching more folks regularly than any other minister these days, compare himself with Graham? How do they differ, if they do...

"As far as spiritual message," was the reply, "we do not differ. There is this difference. I am a pastor. I marry people, counsel with them, bury them, console them."

Does Humbard agree with criticism of Graham from some very conservative sections of Protestantism, who say that Billy Graham is drifting away from his fundamentals?

The answer was crisp. "I've known Billy Graham for 28 years. We worked together on the West Coast in the 1940s with Youth for Christ. He is preaching the same message. He's a sound man. None of us is perfect, mind you, none of us."

One thing he very much shares with Graham, is a non-denominational approach.

"I got that from my father," Humbard says. "My father would say there is only God's family and the devil's family. I think today the picture has changed from denominationalism to more attention to what it's all about."

"People who come to the Cathedral come from all backgrounds, you name it. Now, we are Protestant, sure, and we preach Christ. But as far as doctrines... we don't mind them differing a little in doctrine, if they live right."

HUMBARD is no great fan of the word "theology." He says he often changes his intended talk, as he feels the need. "You know the saying, some preachers get so heavenly, they're no earthly good," he commented. "People are not theologians. You must be human, down to earth and honest with them, and the spirit of God must be there. That's the big thing."

If he has a theology, it is the authority of God's word through the Bible.

"I don't understand all of it," he says readily. "Some of the prophecy, for example, is a little rough. But I understand enough of it to want to share, and I work at it."

He steers clear of social issues.

"I never preached one sermon on the race issue," he says. "Yet the NAACP said I had done more for brotherhood than many who talk about it. Vietnam? I'm not a military man nor a foreign policy expert. You don't go to a blacksmith to have a tooth pulled."

As a man of God, does he have a viewpoint on war and peace?

"I'm against all wars," he replied. "I don't think anyone ever won a war."

Humbard wants to make it clear that he is not a gainst denominational churches and the good work many of them do, though he believes division into sects has contributed to Christianity's decline.

"When we come to Long Beach, and people are moved to contribute, we tell them to send their money to local churches. Sure, I could come to Long Beach and raise a lot of money. I'd just be robbing the local pastors, and I don't want to do that. We cooperate. When people come forward, I give them literature, and if they don't have a church home, the name of the churches and the pastors who work with us."

HE JUDGES a particular church by its works, he says.

"Honesty is honesty, whether it's in the synagogue, the Catholic Church, wherever. I spoke in Akron's largest synagogue not long ago..."

Did he preach Christ there?

"Actually, they wanted to hear about Israel, where I have been ten times. As for preaching Christ there, now you use some judgment," he said mildly. "Why should I go in there at their invitation and talk about our differences? Look at how much we have to talk about where we're alike. The Ten Commandments, that's pretty basic..."

The Cathedral of Tomorrow takes a lot of money to run. It was built with the TV mission in mind, and has a TV production center with well over a million dollars worth of the most sophisticated equipment. ("I believe God made television to help spread His word," Humbard says.)

Humbard and the Cathedral Singers perform against a background of crimson velvet drapes, flood lights, and a choir and orchestra which often provides fast music with a country western beat. A hydraulic device lowers the huge platform to give the congregation a better view. An illuminated cross 100 by 50 feet, lit by 5,000 bulbs which change color to match the service's mood of the moment, sits across the sanctuary ceiling.

MONEY? CATHEDRAL of Tomorrow is a $14 million corporation, which runs a few businesses, including real estate projects, a girdle factory, an ad agency, low cost housing apartments next to the church, and a commercial UHF station now being built.

"Not one cent contributed to the church goes into the businesses," he says. "If a business can make money, I'm interested in it. We need the money for our work. I never thought profit was a dirty word. The bad thing is love of money, and the way it is often used."

"All the big denominations right down the line have business investments to make money. Theirs may be in bonds and ours in real estate. It's what it's for. Two identities, one cause."

So. Baptists will hold meet here

More than 500 Southern Baptist churches, ranging from Bakersfield to the Mexican border, will be represented in Long Beach next week in the second of two evangelism conferences held by the Southern Baptist General Conference of California. The first was in the northern part of the state.

The two-day meeting will begin on Thursday afternoon and conclude with a Friday evening session, all to be held at First Baptist Church of Long Beach, at 10th Street and Pine Avenue.

The New Californians, a group of 11 singers which appeared on "The Newcomers" TV program, which replaced "The Carol Burnett Show" for the summer, will be featured Friday. They began as a part of the youth choir of First Southern Baptist Church of Lemon Grove.

Headlining the conference will be Richard Hogue, evangelist of Houston, Texas.

The commercial enterprises pay property taxes, but not business taxes, a point of some contention a year ago, with many churches under fire, including the non-profit Cathedral of Tomorrow corporation.

Royalties from a recently completed autobiography, "Miracles in My Life," which has started out selling fast, will also go into the "business" of the Humbard ministry.

The Long Beach rally will begin at 7:45 p.m. and last 90 minutes. It will be climaxed, as always, by a call for persons to step forward and receive Jesus Christ.

'No one against me but myself'

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

What could be a better time to start a wonderful new life than at the beginning of a new year? If you are unhappy and dissatisfied with yourself, now's the time to walk away from your old self and from your yesterdays. Those yesterdays are gone and will never come back unless, of course, you drag them back in the form of memories of the unpleasant, defeatist things that have happened.

Henry Thoreau had the right idea. He never got far from Walden Pond, but he learned much about the meaning of life. And he didn't have to go to New York or Chicago or Los Angeles to figure things out either! Every morning before rising Thoreau lay abed telling himself "all the good news" he could think of.

Think how that could brighten you up, and everybody around you! Suppose you did act like a fool, or made a mistake, or had a disappointment — okay, everybody does. Ask forgiveness, do your best to rectify mistakes and then walk away from yesterday. Always become a new person. If you are the same old person, you'll have the same old life every day. But if you become a revised, new person, your tomorrows will be altogether different. I'd like to share a letter with you which illustrates this point:

"I'm writing," says this woman, "not about my problems, rather the lack of them. I have you to sincerely thank for my new outlook on life. For as long as I can remember, I have been defeating myself with feelings of inferiority and nervousness. Now I have begun to practice the doctrines you believe in and I too have found that they really work.

"I now know the effective use of faith. I find myself practicing my beliefs and have a cheerful outlook. I have been able to make new friends out of old enemies." (Isn't that a terrific statement?) "I finally learned and accepted the fact that no one was against me but myself."

And she proceeds to illustrate with this down-to-earth incident: "Last night, I ran a little experiment at the laundromat. First, I cleared my mind of any previous dislike of laundry and told myself that I simply had to do it so why not make the best of the situation?" (Now that's just plain, common sense. If there is something you have to do, whether you like it or not, you may as well make the best of it while you do it!) "So," she continues, "with my new-found smile pleasantly in place, I started out. I smile at everyone, and in turn, people smiled back at me. When one of the washing machines I was using quit, a lady came up and helped me fix it.

"Then I noticed a man having trouble with the candy machine. Thinking that the problem might be the coin he was using, I offered to trade coins with him. The machine still didn't work, but the man returned my empty soda bottle to the rack for me. (One thing leads to another, you see.) A young father and his little daughter

'PEOPLE TREE' HERE SUNDAY

The People Tree, a musical group which has been acclaimed in appearances on Laugh In, Johnny Carson, Dean Martin, the Jerry Lewis Telethon, Jonathan Winters, and toured with Joey Bishop in Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe, will appear in concert Sunday, 7 p.m. at Grace Methodist Church, Third and Junipero. They run the gamut in musical interpretation, and will offer a program of folk song with religious meaning. The public is invited with no admission charge. A free will offering will be taken.

were sitting there. We struck up a conversation and time passed quickly. Imagine me talking with a complete stranger! On the way home, instead of being irritated by obnoxious drivers on the road, I merely hummed a song and met each potential disaster as it arose. It was surprising to find how much better I felt.

"I HAVE forgotten about myself and the problems I had imagined myself to have," she concludes. "Instead I have a sincere interest in others and a desire to show them every kindness. I have come out of my shell at long last. I cannot adequately describe the happiness I now feel, instead of the self-pity and self-hate that once was me. I nag less and find more things for which I have to be thankful."

This woman walked away from her yesterdays.

Episcopalians plan evangelistic program

More than 40 laymen and women and clergy from seven Episcopal parishes in the Southeast area of Los Angeles County will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Pico-Rivera to begin the planning of evangelistic programs.

The group is the same that led the successful "Invitation to Live" Crusade in Downey in December. It will be the initial gathering of the larger body of Episcopalians dedicated to an increased evangelistic thrust in the areas of Downey, Bell, Maywood, Bell Gardens, Cudahy, Huntington Park, Lynwood, Norwalk, South Gate, Pico-Rivera, Whittier and adjacent county territory.

First item on the agenda will be the "Holy Spirit Mission" to be held Jan. 30 through Feb. 2 at St. Bartholomew's. Speakers for that event will be Rev. and Mrs. Dennis J. Bennett of Seattle.

Participating in the new endeavor are: St. Anne's of Lynwood, St. Bartholomew's, St. Clement's of Huntington Park, Incarnation of Norwalk, St. Margaret's of South Gate, St. Mark's of Downey, and St. Matthias of Whittier. All are Episcopal parishes or missions in the Diocese of Los Angeles.

REVIVAL CONTINUED

With an enthusiastic reception last week, and the statement by Pastor Shipley that "miracles are happening," Rev. Jerry B. Walker of Austin, Tex., continues his revival meetings nightly except Saturday at 7:30 in Calvary Light Assembly of God, 2094 Cherry Ave. Tonight he will be guest speaker at Queen's Restaurant with Full Gospel Business Men, with dinner at 6, and preaching at 8.

Consultation on war's morality

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A national interfaith consultation to discuss the moral issues in the Indochina war and its heritage will convene here for four days starting Thursday.

Called by 132 Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox, Protestant and Jewish leaders and styled "An Ecumenical Witness," the conference is expected to attract 400-500 participants.

Dr. Edler Hawkins of Princeton, a former moderator of the United Presbyterian Church and chairman of the consultation's planning committee, noted that the moral crisis arising from the Indochina war makes it "very urgent why we as people of Christian and Jewish faith and as citizens of the United States should gather to assess where we are and where, by the calling of God, we should be."

SOUTH AFRICAN 'RECONCILIATION'

TOKYO — When the "roll call of nations" was read at the recent Baptist World Congress here, the name of the Union of South Africa brought two women walking across the platform, hand in hand.

Coming from an area of legalized apartheid or racial separation, the two, one black and one white, each recited in their native language, "Reconciled through Jesus Christ."

GOINGS ON

"Lost Generation," the latest Billy Graham film, dealing with the mood of America, with appearances by Graham, Art Linkletter and Jack Webb, will be shown Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in Mount Olivet Lutheran, 4405 South St., no admission charge. . . . The Gospel Lads Quartet of the Revival Fires ministry will conduct a "Reach Out Rally" next Saturday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in Bixby Knolls Christian, 1240 E. Carson St., free admission. . . . Salem Kirban, author of "666" and "Guide to Survival," will give a "prophetic" presentation on Armageddon, with a special photographic display, Sunday, 7 p.m. in Central Baptist of Orange County, 227 N. Magnolia Ave., Anaheim.

Rev. Eugene McDowell of the Narcotic Educational Foundation of America will speak from the pulpit of Our Saviour's Lutheran, 370 Junipero Ave., Sunday at 8:30 and 11 a.m. on "Drugs and Christian Concern." He will also show a 20 minute film at 9:45 a.m. . . . A "Reincarnation Forum" on the experiences of previous lives will be held Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in the Center for Religious Research, at Los Altos United Church, 5550 Atherton St., led by Rev. Vernon L. Booker. . . . Arthur Fronius will speak on "The Social Orientation of Ethics" Sunday, 3 p.m. at the Theosophical Society, 602 Pacific Ave.

Women set installation

Officers for 1972 will be installed at the annual meeting of Long Beach Church Women United next Friday in the New Hope Home, 1150 New York St., starting with a 9:30 a.m. coffee hour. A new budget will be adopted for the year, and a brief worship service is planned by Mrs. George Higgins, spiritual life chairman.

Christian Science

Have you ever thought of God as Life?

Or Principle, or Mind, or Soul, or Truth?

These are some of the synonyms that Christian Science uses to define God.

Each of them helps the individual to know God better.

The name Life, for example, shows that God is not a far-off, abstract deity, but is the very source of our life. He is that close to each one of us.

If you are searching for new ideas about God, you will enjoy reading the current Bible Lesson in our Reading Room.

New work by Nabokov

GLORY. BY VLADIMIR NABOKOV. Translated from the Russian by Dmitri Nabokov in collaboration with the author. McGraw-Hill, $6.95.

Nabokov came to the United States in 1940. He had left Russia after the Bolshevik revolution, when he was 18, and after taking a degree in Cambridge University settled in Berlin. There, under the name of Vladimir Sirin he wrote novels and short stories in Russian, tending toward surrealism and expressionism, using an intricate style to distort reality into the grotesque and into fantasy.

His works gained increasing esteem among the Russian emigres in Europe, but the man whose "The Real Life of Sebastian Knight," "Invitation to a Beheading," and "Pale Fire" (written in English, the language he began to employ so masterfully after 1940) was then virtually unknown in this country. In Mirsky's history of Russian literature Nabokov is mentioned, along with a few other emigre writers in a single footnote.

In his pre-English days perhaps the best of his novels were "The Invincible Defense" (1930), the story of a chess champion, his pathological deterioration, his madness and suicide, and the macabre "Invitation to a Beheading," both among the early Russian novels of Nabokov which had been translated into English. "Glory" is the final in the series of English translations of the novels written under the name of Sirin.

Exile, wandering, youthful ambition for greatness are its theme. "Glory's" protagonist Martin, like Nabokov, leaves Russia when the Revolution strikes, lives in a number of places in Europe, attends Cambridge. He has a bout of hopeless love. His yearning is for glory, about whose nature he is vague. When he recognizes what that glory might be, he determinedly pursues it.

Nabokov himself says of "Glory" that its "fun... is to be sought in the echoing and linking of minor events, in back-and-forth switches, which produce an illusion of impetus: in an old daydream directly becoming the blessing of the ball hugged to one's chest, or in the casual vision of Martin's mother grieving beyond the time-frame of the novel in an abstraction of the future that the reader can only guess at, even after he has raced through the last seven chapters where a regular madness of structural twists and a masquerade of all characters culminate in a furious finale, although nothing much happens at the end — just a bird perching on a wicket in the grayness of a wet day."

The translation by Nabokov's son, Dmitri, is first-rate.

JUAN MARIA DE SALVATERRA S. J. SELECTED LETTERS FROM LOWER CALIFORNIA. Translated and annotated by Ernest J. Burrus, S. J. Published by Dawson's Book Shop, Los Angeles, $20.

This new volume in Dawson's Baja California Travel Series concerns that man who founded Loreto, Baja California's first lasting mission and town. Juan Maria de Salvaterra, in 1697, thus accomplished what in a century and a half other explorers and missionaries, brave though they were, could not succeed in doing.

Salvaterra devoted nearly 50 years to the welfare of the Mexican Indians; for a score of those years, from 1697 to 1717, he labored to set up and consolidated the Baja missions. These letters cover that period.

The courage needed for the task shines through his letter of Nov. 28, 1697, to the viceroyn Jose Sarmiento Valladares, Conde de Mocetzuma, from Loreto: "This letter comes to you soaked with perspiration because we used its paper as shield to defend our faith, our king, our fort. The natives received us peacefully; but overcome by greed for our food supplies, they tried to overpower and slay us." Attacked by four tribes, the soldiers fought, "from our trenches," from noon until sunset.

The viceroyn's lack of cooperation was not the least of Salvaterra's burdens, and in one letter, he apprizes the Pope of this.

Dawson's has published yet another of its sine qua non for the aficionado of California history. — N.H.

Lakers humiliate Atlanta

ATLANTA (Special) — Richie Guerin, coach of the Atlanta Hawks, indicated before Friday night's game with the Lakers that the runaway leaders of the National Basketball Assn.'s Pacific Division were fortunate their streak was still intact.

More to the point, he indicated the Lakers were lucky.

"They were lucky they beat us for their 21st win in the streak," he recalled of the game. In December in which the Lakers broke the NBA win streak record.

He was saying nothing of the kind after what the Lakers did to the Hawks Friday evening in the Georgia Tech gymnasium.

The Lakers riddled the Hawks, 134-90, to run their incredible record NBA winning streak to 33. Friday's victory was among the easiest in the nine-week spree. Not since Oct. 31 have the Lakers lost, and in that span they have surpassed the Milwaukee Bucks' previous NBA streak of 20 wins in a row and broke the professional sports record of 26 set by the 1916 New York baseball Giants.

Whereas the Lakers have been building big leads, losing them and then blowing their opponents off the floor in the final quarter, there was no such letup against the Hawks, believed to be a bona fide challenger to the record run.

The Hawks led three times early in the first half but by halftime the Lakers had built a 62-46 advantage and after three periods owned a 31-point bulge, 92-61.

The Lakers now await their severest test in the streak — the Milwaukee Bucks Sunday in Milwaukee in a nationally-televised game. The Lakers have whipped the Bucks once in the streak, on Nov. 21, 112-105, at the Forum.

Jim McMillin let the way early and Gail Goodrich late Friday night as the Lakers won their 33rd game in 42 starts.

By shooting a hot 62.5 per cent in the first half and holding the Hawks to a cold 35.8, the Lakers made it a runaway early.

McMillin got 20 of his 26 points in the first half and Goodrich got 18 of his 23 in the second half. Wilt Chamberlain was the dominating factor on the boards.

Pete Maravich led Atlanta with 17 points.

The last time the Hawks held a lead was in the first quarter at 14-13.

Following Sunday's long-awaited match in Milwaukee, the Lakers will travel to Detroit Tuesday, Cincinnati Wednesday and Philadelphia Friday before resting a week for the NBA All-Star game Jan. 18 at the Forum.

Scare for UCLA, rout for USC

Cal State tackles Fresno

No 49er league losses since 1969

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Cal State Long Beach returns to Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. action tonight against the only team — Fresno State — that has beaten the 49ers in a league game in the last four years.

That happened in 1969, Jerry Tarkanian's first year at Cal State Long Beach.

The Bulldogs jumped to a commanding halftime advantage and then held off the 49ers, 70-63, delaying momentarily Cal State's California Collegiate Athletic Assn. championship.

The 49ers haven't lost in league — 25 games — since that time, however, and should be a commanding favorite when the teams meet tonight in the Cal State gym.

The contest begins at 8 o'clock and will be broadcast on KEZR-FM (96). There is no preliminary game.

FRESNO (4-5) is an improving club.

Coach Ed Gregory has used three sophomores in his starting lineup and Fresno has improved as these youngsters have improved.

The key to Fresno's club is 7-foot-1 center Neal McCoy, one of the three sophomores.

The 220-pounder is averaging 14.2 points and 10.2 rebounds per game. He had 23 points in the Bulldogs' 56-59 victory over Sacramento State.

Fresno's other sophomore starters are 6-2 guard Geoff Brandt, who averages eight points a game, and 6-6 forward Charles Bailey. Bailey is the club's No. 3 scorer with a 15.5 average.

The other starters are 6-3 forward Jerry Pender and 6-0 junior guard Clarence Metcalfe. Metcalfe is the No. 2 pointman with a 16.0 average.

PENDER is one of the best players in the league despite his size. He was an all-PCAA selection as a junior while leading the league in scoring, and currently carries a 23.4 average.

The 49ers have four certain starters tonight and two question marks. The starters are 6-11 Nate Stephens, 6-6 Chuck Terry, 6-2 Lamont King and 6-6 Ed Ratleff.

The question marks are 6-8 Eric McWilliams, who strained a knee in the win over San Diego State, and coach Jerry Tarkanian, who is battling a sore throat.

Glenn McDonald or Bob Lynn would replace McWilliams if he is unavailable, and assistant coach Dwight Jones would fill in for Tarkanian if he is unable to attend the game.

Over 170 tickets for the game will go on sale at 6:30 p.m.

Sifford, Aaron halfway co-leaders in L.A. Open

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Curtis Sifford has spent three undistinguished years on the PGA golf tour, winning only enough money ($10,952.71) to assure himself a place on the breadline.

From this humble position, in two days the 29-year-old Los Angeles native has elevated himself to a place where he could become the first Negro golfer to earn an invitation to the prestigious Masters.

Under a new PGA rule, all four winners will be invited to the Masters, and at the halfway point in the $125,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open, Sifford is the co-leader with Tommy Aaron at 134, eight-under-par at Rancho Park course.

Dale Douglass (66) and George Archer (68) are one shot back at 135, followed by Tom Weiskopf (68) and first-round leader Fred Marti (71) at 136. At 137 are Don January (68) and Dave Hill (67).

Lee Trevino fired a 69 to make the last cutoff at 143, while Billy Casper took a 70 for 141 and Arnold Palmer matched par 71 to stand at 140, the same as defending champion Bob Luna.

The unpretentious Sifford, calm on the course but nervous in his press interview, added a three-under-par 68 Friday to go with his opening round 66, and appears to have enough experience and "home course" knowledge to hold his lead.

If he does, it would be ironic that the nephew of Charlie Sifford, would be the first to play at Augusta. Charlie has long felt he deserved that distinction, and in another bit of irony, he won the L.A. Open three years ago when automatic exemption wasn't granted.

"I'm not going to play conservative . . . I'm going to attack the course," said Curtis in a

Bruins in 78-72 victory

CORVALLIS (Special) — UCLA's top-ranked Bruins thought they had Oregon State all but put away Friday night, but got the shock of their young season before hanging on for a 78-72 victory.

Averaging 108 points per contest, the Bruins were forced to turn to a stalling offense in the final four minutes to remain unbeaten through nine games.

A 17-point halftime lead was chewed to bits by the onrushing Beavers. When Sam Whitehead tipped in a field goal with 30 seconds to play, UCLA's margin was a slim four points.

THE STEADY Bruins placed four players in double figures, with senior guard Henry Bibby pacing the group with 17 points.

However, Freddie Boyd, the hot-handed Beaver from Bakersfield, took game-scoring honors with a career high 37 — most of them when the underdog hosts commenced their second-half rally.

With sophomore center Bill Walton dominating the backboards, the defending national champion Bruins broke quickly from the gate, roaring to a 30-11 early lead.

When the halftime buzzer sounded, UCLA had converted 62 per cent of its first-half field goal attempts. Its largest margin was 21 points before settling for a 17-point, 51-34 intermission advantage.

IN SETTLING for their narrowest decision of the season, the Bruins yielded eight points more than their norm of 64.

Whitehead was the only other Beaver in double figures with 11.

Bibby's backcourt mate Greg Lee and forward Larry Farmer tossed in 15, sophomore Keith Wilkes 13 and Walton 10 points.

Trojans wallop Oregon

EUGENE (Special) — Southern California's Trojans rallied behind all-America Paul Westphal's second-half shooting to hand Oregon a 66-46 Pacific-8 Conference setback Friday night.

The clubs displayed equally cold shooting hands the first 20 minutes, but USC overcame a three-point halftime deficit and turned the contest into a rout when Westphal found the range.

The senior guard from Aviation High was held without so much as a free throw the first half, but collected his game-high 21 markers with a point-a-minute barrage following the break.

SOUTHERN California grabbed the lead early in the second half and steadily pulled away.

The Trojans play at Oregon State this afternoon (Channel 5, 2:30).

The surprising Ducks suffered a critical blow when their 6-11 junior center, Al Carlson, fouled out with 8:19 remaining.

The former Garden Grove star, making his first appearance of the season after regaining eligibility, could contribute only four points and four rebounds.

SHARP-SHOOTING Joe Mackey followed Westphal in the scoring column with 15 points.

Either school could have put the game out of reach with just a little accuracy from the free throw stripe. The victorious Trojans connected on only 25 of 63 free throws (39.7 per cent) while the Ducks, suffering their sixth loss in 10 starts, hit on 17 of 52 (32.7).

Landry hints changes Radical Dallas attack?

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys may be ready to throw conservatism out the window when they meet the Miami Dolphins at New Orleans, Jan. 16 in Super Bowl VI.

That's the hint, at least, cast out by that well-known coaching right-winger, Tom Landry.

The Cowboys' National Football Conference championship offense has been fairly well of late as witness the 20-12 and 14-3 playoff triumphs over Minnesota and San Francisco to earn the return trip to the Super Bowl. But the defense has drawn much of the credit for the wins.

"Actually, we haven't been very efficient at anything — but winning — in the last couple of games," Landry said.

"I'm not overly concerned — mainly because I feel we played two very fine defenses in the Vikings and 49ers. But we're going to be facing another good defense in Miami. We're going to have to improve."

"Maybe we've been gliding, too conscious of not making mistakes and not opening up on offense. We are not playing a reckless, hard-running game," Landry said.

"We are going to be working on this."

"I may be a little too conservative. Maybe, I'll open it up."

Foul play: Saints bow to Lakewood

By DENNIS BROSTERHAUS

St. Anthony High literally fouled itself out against Lakewood Friday night. The Saints lost four starters in the fourth quarter and dropped a 66-75 decision to host Lakewood as the Lancers outscored St. Anthony by 17 from the free throw line.

Lakewood scoring star Glen Gerke, who entered the game with a 32 point per game average, connected for 27 points, including 11 free throws, which was four more than the entire St. Anthony team accumulated.

Gerke put the Lancers on top quickly by hitting seven of his team's first 11 points. He ended the first half with 18 points as Lakewood held a 37-25 advantage.

St. Anthony closed to within four points, 61-57, with two minutes remaining when Al Stellato lost a chance to convert a one-and-one on a lane violation. Stellato, who fouled out only seconds later to join teammates Steve Korte, Marty Miller and Danny Marques, hit the first free throw but a teammate was called for being in the lane too soon.

On the ensuing play, Lakewood put the game away when Ray Young scored a field goal and was fouled. Young missed the free throw attempt but sophomore Dennis Heaton followed the ball in for a four-point play.

Claude Terry led the Stanford attack with 25 points. Dave Frost, former Millikan High and Long Beach City College star, contributed 16 points.

BRIGHAM Young opened defense of its Western Athletic Conference title by dumping Arizona State, 111-102, before 22,800 fans in the Cougars' new arena.

Kresimir Cosic, BYU's all-world center from Yugoslavia, led both teams in scoring with 25 points, followed by teammates Phil Tolstrup and Bernie Fryer with 24 apiece.

Tolstrup, a Canadian citizen, picked the Cougars up in the second half by turning an eight point deficit around with 20 points in the final twenty minutes.

Penn won its 29th consecutive Ivy League game by topping visiting Dartmouth, 96-62. Alan Colter and Bob Morse led the Quakers, now 8-1, with 18 and 17 points, respectively. James Brown was high point man for Dartmouth with 23.

In other Western Athletic Conference games, Arizona upset host Utah, 73-73, and Colorado State crushed New Mexico, 93-65.

Washington (77) defeated California (63). Stanford (75) defeated California (70-63), and Stanford defeated Washington State, 76-54.

Louie Nelson, former Compton High star, sparked Washington with 26 points, hitting 12 of 19 from the field. The Huskies connected on 52 per cent of their field goal attempts to only 34 per cent for Cal, which converted a meager 22 per cent in the first half.

Cal's Ainsley Truitt outperformed the Huskies' Steve Hawes, however. Truitt scored 20 points and pulled down 14 rebounds to Hawes' 17 points and 12 rebounds.

After trailing by 10 at halftime, Stanford went ahead to stay just five minutes into the second half on a Bob Buell field goal.

Claude Terry led the Stanford attack with 25 points. Dave Frost, former Millikan High and Long Beach City College star, contributed 16 points.

Long Beach opened PCAA action Thursday night with an 89-75 win over San Diego State.

UC Santa Barbara, which finished second to Long Beach last year by just two games, opened its conference season with a 73-67 overtime win over San Jose State.

Gaucha center Steve Rockhold, who scored 16 points, tapped in a shot with 3:23 left in overtime to put UCSB ahead for good. Johnnie Skinner led San Jose State in scoring with 21 points.

Verbum Dei rally edges Millikan; frolic for Wilson

By KEN PIVERNETZ Staff Writer

It may not be wise to rile up Verbum Dei High center Lewis Brown too often.

The bespectacled 6-9 junior center almost single-handedly rallied his defending CIF 4-A champions from an 11-point halftime deficit Friday night to subdue pesky Millikan, 71-63.

Brown, who seemingly is as good as he wants to be, pulled down 24 rebounds, blocked 11 shots and scored 20 points as the little south-central Los Angeles parochial school ran its winning streak to 40 games over a two-year period.

"We had all we could handle, and beat a good team," admitted Kenny Booker, the former Poly High-Long Beach City College and UCLA performer who in his first coaching assignment says he is enjoying the challenge.

The host Rams, with the score tied at 16-all at 5:39 of the second period, received a big boost when Dwight Slaughter was hauled from the game for committing a flagrant foul on Del Ritchie.

Neither tried to challenge Brown head-on and wisely shot short jumpers over him as effectively as anyone else has this year. But the Eagles pressured Ram guards Ritchie and Dan Wiley, continuously, limiting the team's 1-2 scorers to only 16 points.

Ritchie had only one field goal in the second quarter, Wiley was held scoreless from the field until the final period.

The Eagles also pulled down 17 more rebounds and won that battle, 62-45. IN OTHER games Friday night, sixth-ranked Wilson got off to a slow start before going on to an easy 75-47 victory over visiting Dominguez.

The Bruins didn't score from the field in the first three minutes as the Dons got off to a 7-2 lead. Cal Wulfsberg, who scored 12 of his 14 points in the first half, shared high-point honors with Brian Ragland.

Two other Moore League schools didn't fare as well. El Rancho, saw its five-game win streak halted by Montebello, 50-48, while Compton dropped a 57-54 decision at San Marcos.

The Dons and Oilers were tied four times in the final three minutes, but missed a chance to tie the score in the last 19 seconds when a shot by Norm Richards failed.

JOHNSON LEADS IN $100,000 BOWLING

Combined News Services

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio vaulted into first place Friday in the $100,000 BPAA U.S. Open Bowling Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The 31-year-old Johnson won six of his eight afternoon matches to climb from sixth place into the lead, then retained the top spot with four victories in the day's second eight-game session.

Johnson had only an over-all 13-11 record in match play, but knocked down more pins — 12,046 — than any other in the original field of 192. His average for 56 games was 215, but all pinfall will be dropped for today's championship fight.

First place will be worth $10,000.

Just when it appeared the Buffalo Braves were beginning to make some advances on the Phoenix Suns Friday night in Buffalo, the game was whistled stopped by the cops, not by the referees.

The Braves had just closed to within 10 points of Phoenix, 95-85 — the closest they got to the Suns in the second half — when police halted the game because of a bomb scare at Buffalo Memorial Auditorium by 9:35 remaining in the third quarter.

The building was evacuated, no bomb was found and the game resumed. By then the Suns had recouped and went on to post an easy 123-110 National Basketball Assn. triumph.

Connie Hawkins drilled in 32 points and Clem Hawkins, Paul Silas and Dick Van Arsdale added 20 apiece for the Braves.

In other NBA games Spencer Hayward scored a career high 48 points to lead Seattle over Cleveland.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Morality in marketing?

By JOHN CUNNIFE
AP Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The news about business has in the past two years often been very adverse. The morality of marketing, the standards of accounting, the responsibility of manufacturers, the ethics of brokers have been questioned.

The questioning has not always been in the form of attacks. Some of it comes from within. Like other Americans, many businessmen wonder if some show during the past years substance was replaced by appearance.

They note that product service, warranties, security often turned out to be worth far less than what was claimed for them. They know that many of the sought image in cosmetics rather than quality. Did the problems develop overnight, as it sometimes seems? Did the criticism suddenly erupt or was it a long time brewing? Whatever, the climate for business has become as remarkably critical today as it was passive just a decade ago.

HERE, in a sampling from one day's news, are situations that bother millions of Americans:

NEWS: The New York Stock Exchange announced improved methods for measuring the performance of specialists, the men who are charged with the duty of buying-selling for their own accounts to make price changes "orderly."

The new tests, which build or supplement standards now in use, will be: Continuity, measured by changes in stock price from one trade to next; spread, as determined by differences in bid-offer prices; depth, measured by specialist participation as dealers in trades of various sizes; service, to be judged from opinion surveys of floor brokers.

QUESTION: The controversy over whether or not specialists do their jobs adequately has gone on for many years. Why at this late date — after many investors allegedly have lost millions on exaggerated price swings — are monitoring methods still imperfect?

NEWS: The former finance chairman of the Penn Central Transporta-

on Company and two associates were charged with legally diverting more than $21 million from America's largest railroad, which later went bankrupt.

QUESTIONS: What is wrong with accounting standards and communication when such alleged violations are discovered only after the financial collapse of what had been referred to as one of the country's mightiest corporations? What is wrong with boards of directors who fail to improve management?

NEWS: The Federal Food and Drug Administration announced plans to review the effectiveness of nonprescription drugs, after a sampling of 400 of them showed only one-quarter to be effective.

American equities in demand

By HARRY C. FRANC

1972 is being ushered by a very dynamic national economy. Political leaders all over America will rejoice. President Nixon at the White House will be greatly pleased and benefited.

Late in November, 1931, the Dow-Jones industrial averages were 798 and month later they were 8 up 60 points in 30 days!

— up 30 points in 30 days.
An English friend
mine who comes to New York City from London
during the opera season has just bought $50,000
First National Bank of Chicago (which was split-up for 1 on Oct. 1, 1971) at J. P. Morgan and Company any which, as this is written, has just made a new high at $77 a share.

The Morgan dividend has been slightly increased, but this very high-grade stock will go much higher.

The international demand for the best equities in America exceeds supply. As was said earlier in this article, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 90 points in 30 days.

It is very possible that late in 1972 or early 1973, the Dow-Jones averages will be heading 1,000.

The durable goods inc

try is very strong. That will mean a great deal to Bethlehem Steel, selling today at $26 a share, is cheap. The dividend was reduced from $1.80 a share in 1970 to $1.20 this year. Earnings for this year will be about $2.50 a share. Next year they will be considerably higher — probably around $3.50.

TODAY, United States Steel is selling at $30 a share. As this column has said before, U. S. Steel is the greatest enterprise in this basic industry. When the dividend was reduced from 60 cents a share a quarter to 40 cents, selling of the shares was overdone. 1972 will be a great year for the company with possible earnings of $3.50. $3.75 a common share and an increase in the dividend.

I want to mention
Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel

Corp. again. The common stock sells for about $16 a share. Earnings for 1971 will be about $1.50. In 1972, they will be much higher — possibly $2.50.

For speculators interested in capital gains, the common is a marvelous purchase. And for investors, the $5 cumulative preferred at going prices (about $44 a share) is cheap.

This preferred sold as low as $36 a share. Then, when a big $5 dividend was paid, clearing up the arrears, the stock advanced sharply in price. It still has a long way to go.

Armco Steel, selling at $18-$19 a share, is most reasonably priced. The $1 dividend is being earned easily, and 1972-1973 could see the stock double in price.

Investors and speculators will do well in 1972.

YOUR HOROSCOPE
By JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Readjustment proceeds thruout your coming year in abrupt, often dramatic, and usually very satisfying episodes. Much study, reflection are essential between steps. Today's natives conscientiously concentrate, are enterprising, more truthful than material advantages require.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Plan on the plainest, economy model of anything, expecting interruption from some unlikely source. Share your know-how and hospitality with friends.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): By giving freely and readily of your time and attention this Sunday you help your own people in a subtle complex manner.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your open ears pick up a hint of a pleasant secret—don't let on you've heard since there's more to come.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): New information tends to upset your conclusions—readjust plans where you must.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): For once you can't talk your way out of an impasse. It's time to put up and do what you've said you'd do.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Social business provides a shelter and cover for much observation and serious thought. This lengthy day has more than a few little surprises.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Leisure hours produce future dividends if conservatively used. Courtesy eases the way, adds to gracious living. Older people come up with minor happenings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Familiarity of about the same age should form a comfortable social group for some mild storytelling, a little more accent on future plans.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Follow up on a personal finance project early, get back to weekend pastimes as promptly as possible.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Faraway, perhaps an echo of long ago as well, holds a nostalgic magic in your mind this Sunday as something awakens a memory.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Leave business and shop talk out of your Sunday altogether. It's more than your physical self that needs the rest. Home life may be a bit turbulent but winds up quite well tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): One of the big questions today is: What do you really want, without reservation or limit?
